

STATE FAIR AND INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

THURSDAY, Aug. 26th, 1885.

The Pavilion was visited yesterday by an undiminished number of men, women and children, and presented, throughout the day and evening, a lively appearance. We believe that the visitors would continue to be as numerous were the exhibition to be continued another week. No matter how many times one looks through the Fair, the next trip will present to the eye numberless articles which have been passed unnoticed before. Were it possible for us to devote the necessary space, we could find much to say in description of articles exhibited.

Among the countless objects of interest, of which we have not been able to make previous mention, are the garden plants and flowers. The horticultural department is not as extensive as it should be, but it contains some rare specimens.

Near the main entrance, a little to the left, is a huge specimen of the tobacco plant, growing. It was cultivated at the Stockton Asylum, by one of the patients of that institution. Near the tobacco plant are some huge bouquets, reaching to nearly the size of a village steeple.

In the mechanical department may be seen a collection of guns, pistols, &c., from the manufacture of C. F. Scholl, of this city. In the collection is a rifle, and by its side is a battered bullet, which was sent, by the rifle, a distance of six hundred feet, and sunk 2 1/2 inches into hard oak.

Among the works of art, not before mentioned, are four fine specimens of daguerotypes, by Shew, of Sacramento. They are near Vance's collection. Opposite are two wonderful specimens of drawings in India Ink. In the extremity of the main east wing, are some beautifully executed drawings, nearly thirty in number, by Students of the San Francisco College. In the south wing is a beautiful painting on glass in Oriental style. Near this are some Grecian oil paintings, very admirably done. Also, some pen drawings, and one very fair specimen of monochrome drawing.

A case of cigars, both domestic and imported, are offered by our neighbor, L. Bow man.

In the large glass case, in the south wing of the main building, may be seen some curiosities in the way of minerals. Some specimens of gold bearing quartz, brought by Hon. J. W. McCorkle, of Butte, are very rich. Native coal, from Nye's Laekes, and native lime, from Gwyn's quarry, in Placer county, and from West Branch of Feather river, in Butte county, prove that our mineral wealth is not limited to gold. In the same vicinity are some of the largest specimens of crystallized quartz we have ever seen. Also, some rare exhibitions of petrified pine and oak.

Suspended on one side of the Pavilion, is a strange thing for "Young America" to look at now-a-days, to wit: "A New Map of the United States, including part of Louisiana. Drawn from the latest authorities." Published in Boston, 1806. The compilers of this old map little dreamed, when they drew the lines which then bounded the "United States of America," that half a century would not pass away before our dominions would extend to the Pacific ocean, and a mighty State on its shores he represented in the National Councils.

Passing into the addition to the east wing, we saw, for the first time, a novel portable cooking range, with the capacity to cook dinner for a young hotel, with but a pint of charcoal. Near it is an iron range, not quite so portable.

The exhibition of buggies, carriages, wagons, &c., is a credit to the State. Benham & Booth, our Marysville foundry-men, have on exhibition a steam engine, of superior finish and symmetry.

The objects which attract universal and unceasing attention, are the ladies, and next to them, the pretty children. It is a goodly sight, at any time of day or night, to see the Pavilion and its contents.

To-day, a grand opportunity will be presented for seeing the immense collection of stock. It will all be paraded at the Stock Grounds, from six to nine and a half o'clock, A. M.

At 10 o'clock, A. M., the Lady Riders contend for the prizes offered the most accomplished lady riders. There will be no delay or postponement, and as everybody must see this novel feature, there will be an immense rush to the Race Track.

At 12 o'clock, M., the skilful Gentleman Riders contend for prizes.

At 3 o'clock, P. M., the Races begin.

In the evening, the Society's Ball, in the Pavilion. During the evening the prizes will be presented to the Lady Riders. The exercises to-day will be highly interesting.

American Genius is receiving substantial acknowledgment abroad. Professor Morse is coming home, it is said, with $80,000 in his pocket, the fruit of his telegraph in Europe. In his own country, he has been robbed of the fruits of his invention by pirating plunders of his patent. He is working mammoth presses for the London Times. The Queen of Spain is buying her war steamers in New York. The Czar has become a patron for the Novelty Works. Rarely, the American hero tamer, is winning golden opinions in England and France for his wonderful skill, and two Philadelphia are building a railroad for the Emperor of Brazil and Philadelphia will make the cars and locomotives to stock it. The best kind of "protection" for American talent is, to let it have free scope to exercise itself in the direction most advantageous, or the most suitable to its genius.

Justice.—A correspondent of the S. F. National makes the following just remarks concerning the rates of charges at our hotels: "It is due to the citizens of Marysville to mention the disposition on their part to render visitors comfortable; and it is also proper to state that the reports that have been circulated in relation to the exorbitant charges by landlords, contain not a particle of truth."

I have yet to hear the first murmur of complaint on the part of those here. Indeed, among the first things that strike a stranger is the determination manifested by hotel keepers to escape the unhealthy results which it is said followed the extortion at other State Fairs.

Twelve Ounces and a Half.—Last week Mr. J. W. Silks presented us a peach which measured over an inch in circumference, and weighed twelve and a half ounces. With it were several other scarcely less in size and weight, and a few bunches of delicious white grapes. All were from Martin Allhoff's Coloma nursery.—Placerville Register.

Mountain Correspondence.

WAMBOO BAR, NORTH YUBA, Aug. 24th 1885.

EDITOR NATIONAL DEMOCRAT:—Sir; I now take my pen to perform a very unaccustomed task; the subject of this letter may not be interesting to you, but I can assure you that it is to us "poor devils," who have toiled and sweated for many a long day, with the bright anticipation of soon realizing our pile; which I am glad to inform you are getting in the shape of one once per day to the band. We struck the lead about one week ago, and if it continues to pay, we will soon be able to return home to our wives and families. We have plenty of ground yet to work, which we hope will yield us as liberally. I am glad to inform you that other companies here are doing equally well, not withholding the fact, for they have expended in stripping off tailors. We live in this God-forsaken place, where we can scarcely see the light of day—so, last Sunday (a miner's holiday) I determined to take a tramp to Campionville to see the fashions, and get posted in politics, as the election is near at hand. I examined the different tickets, but think the one headed by J. Currier, is the one for us. I also heard that my old friend "Peter Lalande," is before the people again for their suffrages. We cannot support him, unless he clears up the charges against him, viz; in 1857 he cast the vote that nominated Anson Cross, for the office of Supervisor, and then came out as an independent candidate. This year he has gone into the election and was beaten, and now seeks to defeat his opponents by running as an independent candidate again, and until these charges are cleared up, he need not expect the support of us honest miners. A. MINER.

San Francisco News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25th.

George Morrison was to-day arrested, for obtaining money under false pretenses in Sacramento, and left on the evening boat.

Rosina Bertrand has commenced suit for divorce from Charles A. Bertrand.

The Republican County Convention has elected the whole ticket of the People's party.

P. W. Shepherd has been appointed Deputy District Attorney in place of Willis.

Here is the Lecompton Legislative ticket: For the Senate—Richard W. Heath and Horace B. Jones; for the Assembly—M. D. Swaney, J. D. Davis, C. S. Sina, R. M. McMill, C. C. Chamberlin, M. Lynch, J. H. Swain and Samuel Flower.

Judge Blake, of Alameda county, while out gunning with a party of friends, on Monday last, received, by accident, six small shot in his face and neck, and five in his breast. But they are not of a dangerous character.

The anti-Lecomptonists have made the following nominations: For District Attorney—W. A. Curran; Chief of Police—Capt. Kentzel; Superintendent of Streets—A. J. Bigelow; Assessor—Edward Gallagher; Tax Collector—A. G. Randall; Public Administrator—G. B. Fobes.

The Legislative convention nominated G. D. Eagles and E. D. Dury for the Assembly.

The Lecompton County Convention, which has as yet made no nominations is much divided this evening, there being many among them in favor of nominating some men named by the Anti's on the ground that they are good Administration men, but have been so long.

The private conversation with Mr. Broderick, which Pat Hunt repeated in the Lecompton Convention, originated in this wise: Hunt went to the Union Hotel to propose to an Anti-Lecomptonite a coalition with the Administration men on Judge Thornton, for one of the District Judges, and by accident got into Mr. Broderick's room, when that gentleman, learning his business, told him his mission would amount to nothing, as Thornton was an Administration man, and he (Broderick) would not recognize, politically, a man in favor of the Lecompton Constitution.

Both wings will, without doubt, unite on Thos. J. Poulter for President of the Board of Supervisors, whom the Anti's have already nominated.

Fourteen passengers left here in the first overland stage, this morning, for Los Angeles.

WHAT THEY THINK OF HIM.—We heard a prominent Lecomptonite express the hope, the other day, that Douglas would be defeated in Illinois, and that Lincoln, the Republican candidate, would be elected to the Senate in his place. We believe that such is the wish of nearly all the Lecompton leaders, though at present, from motives of policy they are not inclined to say so. They do not pretend that they agree with Douglas, but as soon as the election is over the mask will be thrown off, and he will again be denounced by every pro-secession Federal official in the State. All the papers, throughout the Atlantic States, which are controlled by the administration, with the Washington Union at their head, are now denouncing Douglas in the most bitter terms, and they profess to recognize the bolters in Illinois, who are leagued with the Republicans to defeat the election of Popular Sovereignty, as the true Democracy. The professions of the Lecomptonites, that they agree with Senator Douglas is nothing but an electioneering juggle used to catch votes.—Nevada Democrat.

BLACK REPUBLICANISM.—The Buchanan Federal party pretend to be inimical to Black Republicanism. In Illinois, they have allied themselves with the Black Republican party to defeat Douglas, and in this county they are running C. C. Holman, a Black Republican for the Legislature.

The Buchanan Federal party also call Crittenden, of Kentucky, Gov. Wise, of Virginia, Houston, of Texas, Bell and Stanton, of Tennessee, Black Republicans; and they call John Van Buren, the father of the Black Republican party in New York, a good National Democrat. The Buchanan Federalists do not consider the people to be intelligent, else they would not make such silly attempts in their charges of Black Republicanism against the Douglas Democracy.—Stockton Argus.

INSANE PERSONS.—Four insane patients by the name of D. Delgado, Xyren Samuels, Wm. Beck and Rosina Cox, were taken before Judge Blake to-day, and examined for insanity. Drs. Cerry and Holman were the examining physicians. The patients presented no pronounced issue, and were ordered to be committed to the asylum at Stockton.

It was found that Beck was furiously insane, so much so that he raved during the whole time. Samuels and Delgado are under the impression that evil spirits are pursuing them. Rosina Cox, an old woman, has an idea that King George sent her six ship loads of goods, and she can't get even an apron, a pair of stockings or a pipe to comfort her.—Bulletin, Wednesday.

THE GAME LAW.—This exceedingly salutary regulation for the preservation of the game and game birds of California, goes out of effect for the year on Wednesday next, and we presume it will be the occasion of great rejoicing among sportsmen generally. It is said that quails are very abundant throughout the interior this season, as well as other game birds.—Alta.

CALLED HIM A TRAITOR.—Calhoun Benham, in his Buchanan Federal speech in Contra Costa county, called Mr. Stephen A. Douglas a traitor. In this county, that faction pretends to love Douglas. What hypocrisy!—Stockton Argus.

INDUSTRIES.—In the report of the California State Superintendent of Public Instruction, we see the name of C. B. McDonald set down as having been in the Western school. Where can he possibly find time to teach school and edit such a paper as the Trinity Journal? That's what we would like to know.—Red Bluff Beacon.

So would we, but Mac is no ordinary man.

A SPREAD EAGLE TOAST.—At Printers Centre, Me., on the 5th, the following was the second regular sentiment:

Our Nation—Ere long amidst the storms of the sixteenth century, its infantile movements were dimly and indistinctly seen on the May Flower, on the plains of Monongahela, and on the heights of Abraham; the capricious squalls of its infancy were heard in the tea party of Boston, in Faneuil Hall, on the plains of Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill; in his boyhood he ran barefooted and bareheaded over the field of Saratoga, Trenton, Princeton, Monmouth and Yorktown; whipping his mother and turning her out of doors; in his youth he stole over the prairies of the boundless west, and called them his own, paid tribute to the despots of Barbary in powder and ball, spit in his father's face from behind cotton hats at New Orleans, whipped the mistress of the ocean, revealed in the halls of Montezuma, straddled the Rocky Mountains, and with one foot upon golden sand and the other upon codfish and lumber, defied the world; in his manhood, clothed in purple and fine linen, he rides over a continent in cushioned cars, rides over the ocean in palace steamers, sends his thoughts on wings of lightning to the world around, thunders at the door of the Celestial Empire and at the portals of distant Japan, slaps his poor old father, and in the face of the world, tells him to be careful how he peeks into his pickpocket's pockets, and threatens to make a sheep pasture of all the lands that join him. What he will do in his old age, God only knows. May he live ten thousand years, and his shadow never be less.

FRANK DUNN, OF NEVADA.—This sterling Democrat, and able speaker, whose reputation is State-wide, is now in this city. We have had the pleasure of hearing him express his political sentiments. His position may be ascertained by perusing the following, which we clip from the Nevada Democrat: "A mass meeting of the anti-Lecompton Democracy was held at Nevada, last Friday evening, to listen to a speech from Col. R. H. Taylor, the Democratic nominee for District Judge. The meeting was called to order by Dr. Knox, and Francis J. Dunn, Esq., took the stand and spoke a few moments. He stated that his name had been used in connection with the District Judgeship, but Col. Taylor having been unanimously nominated by the State Convention, he freely withdrew in behalf of that gentleman. He announced himself as an uncompromising Popular Sovereignty Democrat. Col. Taylor spoke about three quarters of an hour, and his remarks were well received by those present."

AN INDIAN ACCIDENT.—A very delicate crisis in the matrimonial history of an Indian Chief's wife, (a "hyass tyee Kiootchee," whose residence adds to our office, occurred on Wednesday evening, between the hours of nine and eleven o'clock. An infernal howling, beating of tin pans, grunting and "ool-ooling," induced us, in amiable mood, to render assistance. On inquiry, we learned that the cause was the termination of a marriage. A curious multitude, thronging around the shanty, enabled us with difficulty to get a peep at the mysterious proceedings going on within. By dint of elbowing, we arrived at the door of the lodge, in the center of which we discovered the "medicine-man," or acconcher, dipping his hands into a basin of water; rubbing them together, a la Lady Macbeth; thrusting them into his nostrils; gnashing his teeth; and uttering a series of loud, hoarse, and guttural sounds, which, in the ears of the onlookers, sounded like the rattling of a rattle. The acconcher, in the meantime, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians, lying or sitting on the ground, beating a kind of drum, and the ground, a series of rattles, howling, and uttering a noise similar to what might be heard in the incantation of the medicine-man, to which a chorus was made by some half dozen other Indians,