A COMPANION OF CAMPAIGNERS.

Lafayette, the hero of Jemeppe, and now the distinguished visitor of this city, is in high favor. The French national hero was received by the mayor and council of the city, and on entering the council-chamber, was presented with a sword, a scroll of gold, and a volume of the ordinances of the city. The council adopted a resolution expressing their sentiments of the occasion, and the mayor, in the name of the board, presented Lafayette with a copy of the record of the first meeting of the council.

The mayor, in the name of the board, stated that the council was gratified to see the aged chief among them; that he had often had occasion to reflect upon the part taken by the French hero in the struggle against the British; and that he was full of admiration for the hero's high principles, and the kind manner in which they had been displayed.

Mr. Lafayette, in reply, thanked the mayor and council for the honor conferred upon him; that he had been much gratified by the greeting, and that he was happy in the thought that he had been the means of promoting the interests of the city.

The mayor, in the name of the board, presented Mr. Lafayette with a copy of the record of the first meeting of the council.

Mr. Lafayette, in reply, thanked the mayor and council for the honor conferred upon him; that he had been much gratified by the greeting, and that he was happy in the thought that he had been the means of promoting the interests of the city.

The mayor, in the name of the board, presented Mr. Lafayette with a copy of the record of the first meeting of the council.