NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The telegraph furnishes some delayed dispatches of March 8th. The national Senate, by agreement, was to vote upon the amendment fixing the basis of representation on the 9th. Wilson of Massachusetts advocated the amendment and opposed Sumner's proposition to establish universal suffrage by Act of Congress. The Senator predicted that the amendment would secure universal suffrage, through the action of the States, within five years.

A political sensation has been created by the report of a conversation in which Seward said he advised the President to take the position assumed in the veto message, and indorsed every point in the President's speech. As Henry J. Raymond hastens to denounce the report as a perversion of what Seward did say, it is a fair inference that the drift of public opinion is manifestly against that position.

The Union State Convention of Pennsylvania dealt tenderly with the President, reminding him of his patriotic record, and asking him to stand with, and rely upon the support of the loyal masses of the country; and then declared, in emphatic terms, in favor of the Congressional policy of reconstruction. Senator Cowan, who was elected by the Union party and who has been as recreant as McDougall, was respectfully invited to resign. Major General John W. Geary was nominated for Governor on the first ballot. This nomination, considering that the opposition candidate is Heister Clymer, a "Peace Democrat," is a guarantee that the Keystone State will be right side up in the Fall. General Geary was one of the pioneers of California, was subsequently distinguished as Governor of Kansas, entered the national service at the outbreak of the rebellion as Colonel of the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania regiment of volunteer infantry, rendered gallant service in Virginia, reached the rank of Major Generalcommanding a division in the Twelfth Corpswas transferred to the West when Hooker reinforced Rosecrans, and followed Sherman through his arduous and memorable campaigns from Chattanooga to Raleigh. The action of * this Convention, representing the Union party of one of the most powerful States in the Union in sustaining the Congressional policy of reconstruction, is another and decisive indication that Congress, in this controversy, truly represents the loyal people of the North.

A letter sent by President Johnson to Governor Sharkey, of Mississippi, in August, 1865, recommending the Convention of that State to provide for qualified negro suffrage for the purpose of "disarming" the radicals of the North, shows how early Johnson had begun to look upon the majority of the Union party as men to be foiled and thwarted by strategy.

In the State Senate on Saturday, 10th, an ber of local bills, were passed. By a vote of 1 to 13 the Senate refused to recede from its amendment to the Eight-hour Act. The majority of the select Committee appointed to investigate the matter of the sales of the sale marsh and tide lands reported against final leg islative action and in favor of the appointment of a Board of Commissioners. A minority report in favor of confirming the sales was also submitted. The bill to repeal exemptions and equalize taxation was amended so as to exempt mining claims upon the public lands, churches, charitable institutions, etc., and ordered to engrossment by a vote of 17 to 13, the original friends of the measure voting in the negative. The amendments greatly qualify the utility of the proposed law. An Act to regulate the sales of wines and liquors was ordered to be engrossed. The bill to prohibit the sale of liquor on election days was indefinitely postponed.

In the Assembly, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the School Bill was passed was rejected-aves 50, noes 16. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum Bill was passed, was also lost. An Act for the relief of B. W. Bours and others, sureties on the official bond of Mark A. Evans, was passed over the Governor's veto. An Act to repeal certain Acts authorizing soldiers to vote out of their respective precincts during the rebellion was passed.

FROM SURPRISE VALLEY-SEVERE FIGHT WITH INDIANS - MINING DISCOVERIES .- Assemblyman J. K. Luttrell has received a letter, dated Milk Ranch, Surprise Valley, March 2d, from B. A. Farmer, a reliable resident of the valley, from which we are permitted to make the following extract:

Since last writing the Indians have been commiting some depredations. The citizens raised a company and followed them, but found them in such force they had to come in, after having a battle that did not amount to much; one man wounded—forty head of stock taken. The citizens then sent to Smoke creek for reinforcements. Major Smith came in with thirty-six men, Captain Starr and Major Mullen with twenty men, and about thirty citizens then started for the scene of action under command of Major Smith, and on the 15th of February came to the Indian camp. They were in strong force and had a position in the rocks. The fight commenced at 9 o'clock A. M., with a charge, which set the Indians in the rocks running as fast as legs would carry them. The troops dismounted and went in the rocks after them, and fought six hours. Total number of Indians killed, eighty. The loss on our side was one man killed and seven wounded. Captured about seventy-five head of stock. I think this will let them out for a while.

There is quite an excitement in this country about Black Rock, and from all that I can find out it is more reality than excitement. They have also discovered mines at High Rock Canyon which are very rich. It is about forty miles east of this valley, and a good road. Black Rock is about eighty miles in the same direction.

Lo! THE POOR INDIAN .- A correspondent of the Union, writing from Aurora, March 6th, gives the following case of injustice toward Indians. The affair has been heretofore alluded to in our columns:

About ten days since a man by the name of Spray left Aurora for his ranch in Owens Valley. When at Adobe Meadows he laid his pistol on a table, and the woman of the house took it and put it away. Subsequently, upon Spray's inquiring for his pistol, it was not to be found, and an Indian who was living at the house and taking care of the children, was charged with taking it. He replied that if it was stolen a big Indian who had been at the house must have stolen it, and he would get his horse and go after him, and if he had it he would bring it back. As he was running around his horse to catch him, they supposed he was attempting to run away, when immediately several shots were fired at him and the Indian killed. It is said three or four balls hit him. Subsequently the woman produced the pistol. It is reported the Indians have been to the place, taken up the body and buried it with their full forms, and are now gathering in large numbers, refusing to eat anything belonging to white people, and demanding the punishment of Spray, or they will have ten white men for the Indian. It is very probable that most of the Indian troubles arise from similar causes.

FIRST TRUSTEE.

The functionary styled "First Trustee," i the charter of Sacramento, is virtually Mayor of the city, and upon him are imposed the duties usually assigned to the chief of a municipal government. The nature of these duties can hardly be more clearly and fully defined than n the language of the Act of incorporation, as

Section 5. The President of the Board of Trustees shall be the head of the police and general executive head of the city, and shall perform all the duties of those offices, and all such other duties, matters and things as by law or ordinance of the Board of Trustees may be imposed upon or required of him. He shall preside at the meetings of the Board of Trustees when not necessarily absent. The minutes of each meeting shall be read and approved in open session, and then shall be signed by the President. It shall be the duty of the President to recommend to the Board of Trustees the adoption of all such measures connected with the police, health, cleanliness and ornament of the city, and the improvement of its Government and finances, as he shall deem expedient; to be vigilant and active in causing the laws and ordinances for the government of the city to be duly executed and enforced; to exercise a constant supervision and control over the conduct and acts of all subordinate officers; to receive and examine into all such complaints as may be preferred against them for any violation and neglect of duty, and certify the same to the Board of Trustees; sign all warrants drawn upon the Treasury for the payment of money out of any of its funds theseet, but of duty, and certify the same to the Board of Trustees; sign all warrants drawn upon the Treasury for the payment of money out of any of its funds thereof; but before he shall sign any such warrants, he shall ascertin from the books of the Auditor that there is sufficient money in said fund to pay the same, and he shall examine and see that the law, and every ordinance and order in regard to the account, claim or demand upon which the issuance of such warrant is predicated, has been strictly complied with in every particular, that the Auditor has made a proper entry of such account, and the proper minute of such warrant in his warrant book. He shall deliver to the Tax Collector, on or before the second Monday in April, the assessment or tax roll certified by the Auditor. He shall keep, in a book to be kept for that purpose, a statement of the total real and personal property assessed, and the amounts of the different taxes therein as essesd; provided, however, that nothing in any part of this Act shall repeal, aiter, amend or prevent the operation of the Act of April 26, 1862, entitled an Act to provide for the government of the common schools in the attention of Securities.

provide for the governments, The law itself outlines the kind of man the city needs in this important position. He should be energetic, vigilant, careful, cautious, familiar with the financial condition of the municipal government, not indifferent to improvements, but considerate as to the cost, free from the suspicion of liability to corrupt influences, ready to say "no" and to oppose measures which he believes to be unwise, fraudulent or in any way injurious to the public credit, without pausing to reflect upon the risk of his personal popularity-in short, a man of business capacity, who will exercise the same scrupulous attention and display the same vigilant activity in the management of municipal affairs that he would in undertaking a private enterprise involving his own fortune. Is this too exacting a standard? Must our public officers be honestly pliant or cunningly corrup in order to secure popular favor and retain their places? We cannot admit the accuracy of such an estimate of popular intelligence. The proper men are to be found in the community, and we believe that when one of them has been discovered and tried, and has a record of faithful and efficient service, the majority of citizens, whether they all personally like the man or not, will have sufficient regard for their own interests-selfish regard, if you please-to give their voices to his retention. Some foreshadowing evidence of this is to be found in the action of the Union City Convention which assembled on the 10th and nominated, by acciamation, Charles H.

Swift for re-election to the office of First Trustee, which he has filled for the past three years. The Convention fairly represented all classes and general interests of this community. and included persons who have been at time displeased at the action of President Swift in cases where his views differed from their own Previous to the meeting of the Convention other candidates had been proposed, simply because it was fancied they would provoke less animos ity and command a larger support; but when Act to amend an Act to establish an industrial the delegates came together and compared notes school in the city of San Francisco, and a num- they found they all agreed upon one pointthat "Swift was the best man for the city. As a vigilant guardian of the finances his services could not be questioned, and the belief was general that if his action in any instance was regarded as a grievance by individuals, it was prompted solely by anxiety for the public interest. Hence, the Convention decided to nominate "the best man for the city" and endeavor to make him also the strongest man at the polls. Upon President Swift's record it is hardly necessary to dwell. The present city government was organized for the special purpose of economy, the enormous debt created by wasteful and corrupt administrations making a frugal expenditure necessary to avert a choice between crushing taxation and repudiation. Swift has consistently represented that idea of economy in the Board of Trustees, has labored to bring order out of financial chaos, has resisted the further increase of debt, has insisted upon holding subordinate officers to a strict account ability, has refused to sanction claims which he deemed were unfounded or exorbitant, and has exercised a watchful supervision over all municipal affairs. This is his title to the support of every taxpayer and of every citizen who feels an interest in the prosperity of Sacramento; and we may add that it is this which inspires the opposition of persons who hope to get an illicit sip of the city treasury. The "Democrats" are running Wm. F. Knox, a contractor, for First Trustee. He is a consistent "Democrat," and also a consistent contractor, Consistent "Democrats" are generally on parole now in loyal communities, and are not considered eligible. Consistent contractors, as a rule, have too liberal ideas of economy in disbursements to suit the present condition of our finances. Knox will never do. Swift is the Union candidate, and as such, independent of his personal fitness, he is entitled to the support of loyal citizens. Another Convention, composed of men who have hitherto acted with the Union party, has been called to meet to-day, for the purpose of placing a third candidate in the field. From present indications, we infer that the movers in this affair do not expect to elect their nominee. What, then, do they propose to accomplish? The election of a "Democrat?" If so, they should deal fairly with the public and boldly ratify the nomination of Knox. If, however, they are too loyal to desire the election of a "Democrat," and are simply opposed to Swift, they may be invited to reflect upon the factious nature of their opposition and consider whether it is not their duty, under present circumstances, when the integrity of the Union organization is of high importance to the country, to submit to the manifest sentiment of the majority. The olive branch was extended in the resolutions adopted by the Convention at Turn Verein Hall. How can the dissentients expect a compromise where they propose to yield nothing? Is it too heavy a demand for the largest section of the Union party to insist upon having one Trustee when two members of the Board belong to the minority wing? We hope the "sober second thought" of the men who are engineering this factious movement will prompt them to act in

Congressional-Seward's Position. WASHINGTON, March Sth.
The Senate devoted the day to debate on the constitutional amendment (the basis of representation), the vote on which it was agreed should be taken to-morrow. Wilson of Massachusetts made the principal speech in favor of the amendment, predicting that it would secure universal suffrage within five years. He apposed the idea of forcing universal suffrage upon the states by positive law.

Henderson of Missouri offered resolutions declarge that Congress has the whole power to determine e plan of reorganization, and requiring the joint amount to the construction to report a law under plan is the construction of the construction to the construction to report a law under plan is the construction to report a law under the construction of the construction to report a law under the construction of the construction

Committee on Reconstruction to report a law under which States may be organized.

The very emphatic manner in which Secretary Seward, in conversation with certain members of Congress, affirmed that the late position taken by the President was assumed through his influence has excited much remark. Raymond of New York, in a dispatch to the New York Times, denounced the statement as a malicious perversion. We will probably obtain the satisfaction of hearing what Seward did say related on the floor of the House. According to those who heard the language used, it was exceedingly intemperate. Seward reiterated his indorsement of every point in the President's speech, and said in his opinion there was not at present a single traiter in the South.

The President and Governor Sharkey of Mississippi-The President's Views.

The following letter from President Johnson to Gov-rnor Sharkey appears in the voluminous report to longress concerning the process of reorganization in the Southern States:

the Southern States:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 15, 1865.

Governor Wm. L. Sharkey, Jackson (Miss.): I am gratified to see that you have organized a Convention without difficulty, and hope without delay the Convention will amend the State Constitution—abolishing slavery and denying future Legislature's power to legislate property in man. If you could extend the elective franchise to all persons of color who can read the Constitution and write their names, and to all persons of color who own real estate valued at not less than $250 and pay taxes thereon, you would completely disarm the adversary and set an example that other States will follow. This you can do with perfect safety, and you will thus place the Southern States, in reference to free persons of color, upon the same basis with the free States. I hope and trust that your Convention will do this, and, as a consequence, the radicals, who are wild his, and, as a consequence, the radicals, who are wild upon the negro franchise, will be completely foiled in heir attempts to keep the Southern States from renew-ng their relations to the Union by not accepting their

ANDREW JOHNSON,

President of the United States. Pennsylvania Union Convention - Radical Sentiments—General Geary Nominated for Governor.

Chicago, March 9th.

The Pennsylvania Union Convention yesterday nominated General John W. Geary for Governor on the first ballot, and adopted resolutions declaring that the work of reconstruction belongs to Congress; that the national faith is pledged for the payment of the public debt and the protection of the freedmen; praising Governor Curtin and Secretary Stanton, and requesting Senator Cowan to resign.

The Pennsylvania Union platform covers eighteen resolutions. The resolutions say it is our most imperative duty to gather the legitimate fruits of the war, so that the Constitution may be purified, our institutions strengthened and the national life prolonged; that failure in these grave duties would be scarcely less criminal than acquiescence in secession; that it would be an insult to every soldier who took up arms to save the country; that, filled with admiration of the patrictic devotion and fearless courage of Andrew Johnson, the people of Pennsylvania express confidence in him, and with the confidence so expressed appeal to him to stand firmly by the side and repose upon the support sand firmly by the side and repose upon the support of the loyal masses. The fifth resolution declares that the work of restoration necessarily belongs to the law-making power, to deny which imperils the dearest rights of representative Government; that as malinthis of representative Government; that, as preliming to that work, Congress should carefully invested the condition and declare the terms, and that we dially approve the action of Congress hitherto of the condition of Congress conditions and the condition and conditions are considered to the condition of the c struck some rick rock on the third extension of the Star Spangled Banner ledge, which is located near where the lead crosses Little Deer creek. They have good reason to believe that their claim will prove as rich as the famous Star Spangled Banner lead. The Grass Valley National says:

RICH STRIKES .- The Grass Valley Union March 9th says:

We learn that the ledge of the Houston Hill Compa Ill continues to pay the enterprising owners large di ends. Thirty-four and a half loads of quartz yield idends. Thirty-four and a half loads of quartz yielded $202 50 per load, a few days ago. The owners of the ledge now are: A. H. Heuston, Captain S. W. Lee, S. D. Bosworth, Smith Brothers, Joseph Woodworth and the Coleman Brothers. Captain S. W. Lee has purchased the interest of William H. Rodda (one-sixteenth), and is now the fortunate possessor of one-eighth of the above valuable mine. The interests now pry monthly dividends of one thousand dollars and in a short time will be up to fixeen hundred dollars. The company have in their employ one hundred men about the mill and mine.

SAN JOSE .- A meeting of Union men was held in San Jose on Thursday evening, March 8th, to indorse the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill. Judge C. P. Hester presided and speeches were made by Charles Maclay and Major John Cook. A series of resolutions were adopted, including the following: the following:

Resolved, That we cordially approve of and indorse the Administration of Andrew Johnson (whose Cabinet Council is composed of the same illustrious statesmen who so ably served their country in the same capacity during the term of his predecessor), in adhering with strict fidelity to the line of policy upon the important subjects arising out of the subjugation of the rebellion, which his predecessor had so plainly and so carnestly maintained. That we recognize in it the most certain and effective means of bringing our once warring and discordant people to be again of one mind and of one heart, in the loye and devotion to the entire Union and the glorious flag of our country—the symbol of its power and greatness.

JOHNSON MEETINGS .- The Solano Herald has the following:

The Democrats had a big meeting in San Francisco the other day (in which one of the proprietors of the Call participated), and smaller ones at Sacramento, Marysville and other places, in indorsement of the President; but not a single meeting of Union men [except at San Jose] for that purpose has been held in this State, nor one at which his course has not been denounced or deplored, and the action of Congress sustained. Yet the Call has the effrontery to say that the people sustain the President.

THE CITY ELECTION

MESSRS. EDITORS: Though not an owner of real estate r a "property holder," I am a citizen, and, as such nterested in all that affects the economical administra tion of our city government, for I believe that all citi zens who pay for their own support or that of their amilies contribute to the public taxes. It is a misaken idea that none but owners of property are affected by an increase of taxes, for the wholesale dealer, the jobber and the retailer-all add their taxes to the cost of their goods and wares, which the consumer has to pay. I intend to vote for C. H. Swift, the Turn Verein Hall nominee, mainly for the reason that he is an opponent of the encroachments of the Pacific Railroad monopoly, while the Short Hairs—judging from the course they have hitherto pursued—will either nominate a favorite of the Railroad Company or throw their influence in favor of the Democratic candidate, who is believed to be less obnoxious to the officers and friends of that corporation than Swift. It is probable that the railroad company, having already got possession of over one-half of the city front, under different franchises, may, after the manner of the horse-leech, cry "Give, give," till they have secured the remaining unoccupied landing on the Sacramento. But the working-Give, give," till they have secured the remaining un-cupied landing on the Sacramento. But the working-an may say that a gift of the city's interests on the ont levee will not affect him. Let usee. Before the richase of the Sacramento Valley Railroad by the Pa-fic Company firewood could be bought in this ty for from $6.50 to $8 per cord; immediately upon e completion of that transaction the price per car-ad for freight upon both roads was raised from $10 to 12, causing a corresponding increase by the retailer. $21, causing a corresponding increase by the retailer, so that the householder, the workingman, the mechanic, pays a tax of over one dollar per cord on all the wood he consumes, for the benefit of the railroad corporation—or $8 to $10 per cord; and it is said they contemplate at 11 to 12 to 12 to 13 to 13 to 14 to 15 ne consumes, for the benefit of the railroad corporation—or $\forall \tilde{\tilde{8}} \tilde{1} \tilde{ lating to this city, but I cannot help thinking that the Pacific Company may have some project to carry out in the fature, by which, having inclosed the city on three sides, they may complete the fencing in of their ranch by a connecting track between their two railroads. "Corporations have no souls;" they will take all the rights and privileges they can get. The Pacific Railroad Company have now all the city can afford to give them, and our citizens should place in the Board of Trustees a man who will work and vote for their interests and not to build up at their expense a corporation that is already too powerful. Such a man I believe C. H. Swift to be, and therefore he should receive the support of every property holder and WORKINGMAN.

GOOD NERVE. - The Placerville Mirror relates the following case of womanly stratagem and nerve:

A lady of our city showed considerable nerve the other day, somewhat to the astonishment of her worthy husband. It appears she has long been troubled with a terrible and incurable corn upon one of her toes, and so unendurable had been the pain that she often expressed a wish to have the offending member amputated; but her husband (a medical gentleman), fearing she could not endure so severe an operation, would not consent. She thought she could st-nd it, and so, finding the annoyance becoming worse and worse, she quietly possessed herself of a small chisel and a block, and taking care that her husband was within call, though not in sight, she went to work to cure that corn. Laying the block upon the floor and the toe upon the block, she applied the edge of the chisel, and, with a smart tap, the toe found itself somewhere else, very suddenly. Then stepping to the door, with a smile on her face, she requested her husband to come in and dress the wound so deliberately inflicted.

DANGEROUS TRAP. - The Nevada Transcript relates the following incident:

relates the following incident:

The miners in the vicinity of Omega have been considerably bothered by sluice robbers, and a company there determined to set a trap for the rogues. A quick-silver flask was procured and filled half full of powder. The remaining space was filled with pebbles, and a gun tube was arranged in the stopple. Upon this a cap was placed, and a hammer so fixed that any one stepping in or out of the sluice would pull a string and discharge the bomb. The torpedo was arranged, and all the men except one had leit the diggings. Just then a "dorg" came along, and being frightened by ye miner, jumped, the sluice, struck the string and discharged the blast. The report was as loud as that of a columbiad, and though the fragments, pebbles and sand were scattered in every direction, both man and dog escaped unhurt. The former, however, was so badly frightened that he lay upon the ground motionless until his partners came and helped him up. These kind of traps are exceedingly dangerous, and those who set them should be careful that they do not get caught themselves.

CONGRESS AND THE PRESIDENT .- The Soland Herald remarks as follows: Herald remarks as follows:

The loyal men of the nation have inscribed upon a hundred battle-fields, in characters of blood, their fixed and unalterable determination to maintain this Government upon the immutable principles of liberty and justice; and, despite the apostasy of a leader whom they have trusted, they will march onward to the full and complete achievement of their exalted and cherished purpose. In this spirit they hall with joy the calm and dignified but firm and decided stand taken by Congress in formally refusing to admit the Senators and Representatives of any seceded State until Congress shall recognize the establishment of a loyal republican government, and the enactment of such constitutional and legislative provisions as will secure peace and good order therein.

RICH SPECIMEN.-The Nevada Transcript of

March 10th says:

We saw yesterday at the Sheriff's office a specimen of cement from the claims back of Coyoteville which was exceedingly rich. The entire surface was covered with particles of coarse gold which seemed to extend some distance into the mass. This cement is composed of decomposed granite and quartz gravel. It has been several times tested at the mills and yields enough to make its working profitable. Frequently rich specimens like the one at the Sheriff's office are found. It is difficult to give the amount contained in the specimen, and by judges it is variously estimated at from twenty to fifty dollars. March 10th says:

EQUAL TAXATION. MESSRS. EDITORS: I cannot perceive that the Sta Legislature has any discretionary power in regard to axation, when the Constitution of the State imperatively requires that "all taxation shall be equal." This means, of course, that all property, irrespective of ownership, shall be equally burdened in supporting the lovernment, which in one sense creates property by giving it protection. But, independent of constituonal restrictions, let us view the subject in reference to the strict principles of equity. Religion is admitted on all hands to be, not a matter of demonstration, but of faith, which is the creature of nature, or education, or both. It is, robbed of all superstitious connections, simply a matter of taste or opinion, the gratification of which affords the possessor as much pleasure, at least, as anything pertaining to life. Church property is created from selfishness and personal enjoyment just as much as fine houses and charming landscapes; and why should the man pursuing his happiness in the former way be exempted from the burdens of government while the latter, following his inclinations in conformity alike to law, is compelled to sustain the beneficent reign of the law? The churchman enjoys his magnificent church when he has a pew richly furnished, from whence he can delight in the grand notes of the organ and the eloquent disquisition of the pulpit orator. The skeptic enjoys an equal amount of pleasure, perhaps, in riding out in his buggy on Sunday. They both invest their money to gratify their wishes, and both profiting alike, why should the investment of the one be exempt while the other is taxed? The exclusion of church property from taxation is, financially, the union of Church and State; for in this way the non-churchmen are forced, to a certain extent, to sustain the churches of the country. "Every tub on its own bottom" is the American doctrine. Let every man select his own religion and pay the incidental cost. This is religious liberty. A man has no more right to put his money in a religious institution of the country of the pulming and the put his property in a religious institution of the country to the pulming and the put his money in a religious institution of the country of the pulming and the put his property in a religious institution of the country of the pulming and the put his money in a religious parties institution of the country of the pulming and the pulming an to the strict principles of equity. Religion is admitted own bottom" is the American doctrine. Let every man select his own religion and pay the incidental cost. This is religious liberty. A man has no more right to put his money in a religious institution and claim exemption from taxation than if the same amount had been put in a saw mill.

which at first indorsed the course of the President, and was claimed by the San Francisc Call as on its side, has seen new light. After alluding with some commendation to his services during the war, the Herald says: But when we contemplate his acts and words of the past few weeks, behold him affiliating with known traitors, and witness the manner in which Democrats stand with ontstretched arms to receive him, our faith in his protestations cannot but waver. From every quarter comes the sound of Democratic rejoicings. Enthusiastic meetings are being held wherever a conclave of traitors can be vathered together. thusiastic meetings are being held wherever a conclave of traitors can be gathered together, and his course unanimously approved. The dirtiest Copperhead sheets in our State and elsewhere, which but a short time since were heaping upon him the most vile abuse and malignant vituperation, applying such epithets as "murderer," "drunkard," "woman hanger," "ty-rant," and a thousand other kindred expressions, too well known to be here repeated, are now loud in their praises of the "white man's President." No words well known to be here repeated, are now load in their praises of the "white man's President." No words can be found in the vocabulary of the English language too endearing to lavish upon Andrew Johnson. When such are the sentiments given niterance to by the Democratic press and Copperhead leaders of our land, it behooves Union men to be on the alert and prepared
