NEWS OF THE MORNING.

Yesterday there was much animation in ou streets, caused by the arrival of delegates to the American Convention which meets to-day. The delegates were so much scattered over the city that it is difficult to tell whether the Convention will be as fully attended as has been anticipated. The body we understand will meet at 10 o'clock this morning, in the Rev. Mr. Benton's Church, on Sixth street. The chief object of the Convention is the nomination of candidates. In connection with the nominations for Congress, we have heard the names of sixteen gentlemen mentioned : B. C. Whitman, of Solano; J. T. Farley, of Amador; J. M. Howell, of El Dorado : O. C. Hall, of Sierra J. D. Cosby, of Siskiyou; A. B. Dibble, of Nevada; G. H. Cartter, of Sacramento; D. R. Ashley of Monterey; R. H. Bowlin, of San Francisco; J. W. Coffroth, of Tuolumne; W. H. Culver, San Francisco; J. C. Hinckley, of Shasta; J. O. Goodwin, of Yuba; Isaac Baggs, of Sacramento; E. Garst, of Yuba, and W. W. Upton, of Trinity. For Superintendent of Public Instruction, we have heard mentioned the names of Dr. F. W. Hatch, of Sacramento; Dr. S. M. Tibbetts, of San Francisco, and J. C. Goods, of Yuba. For Clerk of Supreme Court, Dr. Wm. H. Taylor, of El Dorado; D. T. Bagley and John Skinker, of Sacramento Lewis Teal, of Nevada; and O. Wolcott, of Tuolumne. For State Prison Director we have heard no name mentioned. The gentlemen spoken of in connection with the office of Presidential Electors, are Bailie Peyton, of San Francisco; Judge Daly of Mariposa; H. R. Hawkins, of Placer; Dr. J. Powell, of Sacramento; E. A. Rockwell, of Tuolumne: R. N. Wood, of Amador, and Chas. Semple of Colusa.

The State Capitol Commissioners advertise for sealed proposals, to be received until the 1st of November next, for erecting the State Capitol, on the block donated by the city of Sacramento, to the State, for that purpose. The building is to be erected according to the plan and specifications selected by the Commissioners, now on file in the Secretary of State's Office, where they are open to the public for inspection. The bids will be opened publicly on the first day of November next, at 12 o'clock M., and the contract awarded to the lowest bidder, provided his bid come within the amount appropriated ($300,000,) and within 10 days thereafter he give bond in the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, with sureties to be approved by the Commissioners for the faithful performance of the work. It is also required that each bid shall be accompanied by a bond in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, with, at least, ten responsible sureties, conditioned that the party proposing shall duly enter into the contract in accordance with the proposals, should it be awarded to him. It is also required that the building be completed on or be fore the first day of January, 1858-the contractor to be paid in warrants of the State for the work.

During the campaign, we have not witnessed so much enthusiasm crowded into so small a body as was manifested last night, at the meeting of the lected at the bridge. The stage commenced run-"Old Line Whigs," in Pioneer Hall. The speeches were characterized by marked ability, and seemed to revive the ancient spirit of the party and send a thrill of enthusiasm through the hearts of the little band in attendance. There have certainly been assembages of much greater pretensions during the present canvass, at which no one half the enthusiasm was displayed.

The American Convention.

The delegates to the American Convention whose session is to commence to-day, are fast arriving. From present appearances, we judge it will be largely represented from every section of the State, and if its deliberations are marked by prudence, and an entire exemption from the intrigues and corruptions which are so apt to distinguish political bodies, its influence will be extensively felt, and will greatly tend to strengthen the party in the estimation of all good and honest citizens. Now that some of those whose association with the American party was calculated to something to say in another letter. excite only distrust, and create disaffection among the better portion of the community, have openly absolved themselves from all affiliation with the organization, an opportunity is presented for the Convention to redeem the errors of the past, and present, for the suffrages of the people, men in whom they may implicitly rely as possessing the essential requisites of honesty and capability. If and to prepare for the annual election of its offithey would succeed in the coming contest, they must act more with reference to the public good than the advantages which office may bring to individual members of the party. The same motives which prompted them in the last campaign, urge them to united and consistent action now. Most of the measures, the accomplishment of which was then so much needed for the reputation of the State, are yet unattained. The same party leaders who, for years past, have wantonly rioted upon the treasure, and corrupted the credit of the Commonwealth, are again banded together for the recovery of their lost positions. If, then, the American party would succeed in their final overthrow, they must seek to unite with them the sympathies and co-operation of and in no wise related to a spirit of adventure, those who, discarding party ties, vote only for the best and most reliable men. By pursuing a different course, and selecting their candidates upon the narrow policy of sec tional and local advantages, or from the still more dangerous one of rewarding political services, they may expect their action to be repudiated by the people. For ourselves, we desire to see the whole system of selecting candidates, which has been heretofore adopted, ertirely abolished. With all parties, offices have been bestowed upon the favorites of a few influential men, rather than upon those who are the choice of the people. That the American party has not been exempt from this practice, the result of the past sufficiently demonstrates, and the consequence has been that we are still deprived of a wholesome system of legislation essential to the prosperity, and seriously demanded by the best interests of the State. To effect these objects, we need men of influence, of ability, and of unwavering integrity. If it is possible, in a convention of politicians, to nominate men with reference to this standard of fitness, we sincerely trust the gentlemen assembled here to-day will set the example. From the other party-from the confused materials which, under the honored name of Democracy, are now bending their energies to procure office and regain their lost influence in the State government-we can hope for nothing better than that which during years of misrule they exhibited THE PITT RIVER ROAD ABANDONED .- The California Stage Company have withdrawn their stages from the new road from Red Bluffs to Yreka, by the way of Pitt river. The travel would not support the line. On Wednesday, Aug. 27th, a new arrangement took effect, as we learn from the Yreka Union; the Company purchased from Messrs. Greathouse & Slicer the route between Yreka and Callahan's ranch, on the road, and in conjunction with Greathouse & Bros., who will carry the travel between Callahan's and Shasta, they will run the route by the old road to Sacramento.

Near the head of the valley is situated quite a little town, known as Ione City-taking its name from the valley itself. From this point a few miles' ride lands the traveler in Jackson. the county seat of Amador. It presents the appearance of a new and rapidly built town, which a fire would sadly reduce in a few minutes. Everything now about it looks dull, as no water can be commanded for mining purposes. It must, however, when water is plenty, be a place where a handsome amount of business is transacted. In addition to surface mining, the hills about Jackson are found rich ; numerous tunnels have been run into the line of hills, bounding the stage road on the north, between the town and a little place called Butte City. Hundreds of tons of dirt are now being taken out of tunnels and so deposited as to enable the owners to run it to a point where sluice heads may be obtained next winter from the ditch which lies along the base of the ridge. Amador is pronounced by those most conversant ble mining district. It doubtless contains some of the most productive quartz leads in the State. Most of her mills are now unable to work for want of water. Such a scarcity of water in the mines has not been experienced since California was peopled by Americans. The Mokelumne river is so extremely low that where we crossed it the water might all be run through a flume four feet wide by one foot in depth. On many claims the owners find it impossible to pump them out, because the current of water running is too weak to turn a wheel to work a pump. This will operate much against mining in this river. We saw Chinamen trying to remedy the want of water by using Chinese power, in the form of tread mill. But they made rather slow progress in the way of pumping. The new road recently completed by Dr. Soher, to enable wagons to cross upon his Big Bar bridge oned. places Jackson and Mokelumne Hill within six niles of each other. It is three miles shorter than the old road, and avoids the almost impassable hills by way of the lower bridge. The new road is of an easy grade, well built, and on the Jackson side the most expensive for the distance of any we have ever seen in California. It follows up a ravine, and is, most of the way, cut in the solid rock on one side and walled up on the other; and so steep and deep is the canon, that in some places the hight from the top of the wall to the bed of the stream looked, when passing, to be anywhere in the neighborhood of a hundred verlooked. feet perpendicular. On the east side of the river no rock was entered. The contract price for completing the road was a little over seven thousand dollars, a very large sum of money to be expended by one man upon a road enterprise in these hard times. It is a great accommodation to the public, and it is to be hoped that the enterprising builder may realize a handsome per centage on his capital, by means of the tolls colning over the road on Sunday last. We have dwelt at some length upon the completion of this mportant link in the chain of communication from Sacramento to Mokelumne Hill, because we like to see such undertakings encouraged, and like to see such undertakings encouraged, and because we anticipate a direct benefit to the for-mer city in consequence thereof. Over the old road it was almost impossible to haul goods; over the new a team may haul the same load it could deliver at Jackson. By the old road the stage owners were forced to put six horses to a coach, and then request the passengers to walk coach, and then request the passengers to walk up the hill; by the new road four horses can take a coach with a full complement of passengers.

Opening of the High School.

The High School recently instituted by the Board of Education was opened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, under the conduct of J. M. Howe, The greatest annoyance to travelers at this sea- in the presence of Dr. F. M. Hatch, City Superson of the year in California is the dust, which is intendent ; Dr. Charles Burrell, School Commis met in clouds on all mountain stage roads. That sioner of the Third Ward ; the Rev. Mr. Hill, from Sacranento to this point, after it reaches Drs. J. F. Morse and Wm. Grove Deal, and the foot hills, is no exception. It will insinuate several ladies and gentlemen, parents of pupils. It was gratifying that every pupil who had been successful in applying for admission was present and entered upon his or her studies with alacrity. we have enumerated above. The remarks of Dr.

YOUNG LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :- The positions which you now occupy impose certain duties upon you, to which it is well, for a few moments, to di-rect your attention. Selected from among a num-ber of applicants for admission to this school, you have assumed responsibilities in the highest de-gree honorable to yourselves, and if rightly ap-preciated, capable of being made productive of the most salutary influences.

Upon the manner in which you conduct yourselves, must depend the success of this undertak-ing, and the reputation it is destined to sustain. Your connection with this school in the commencement of its organization, you may justly regard as a distinction, which, in proportion as you improve its advantages, will become a source of pleasure and commendable pride, or of annoyance and morand commediate price, or of antoyance and mor-tification. The rules adopted for your guidance will be placed in your hands, and you will be re-quired strictly, uniformly and conscientiously to obey them. Whatever of idleness, of indifference to your duties, of disregard of the means of im-provement you may have indulged during your past connection with the schools of this city it is past connection with the schools of this city, it is expected that you will, with the commencement of your association here, renounce. You meet to-getner in this room as young ladies and gentlewith the subject to be a wealthy and inexhaustimen, with minds sufficiently matured to under stand the relations you sustain to each other, and with intelligence to comprehend your duties. If you have not reflected upon the nature of your position and the obligations it imposes, you are but poorly prepared to be received among its mem-bers. An instructor has been provided, who will direct your minds to the attainment of truth, and under whose guidance you may be advanced in the highest grades of useful knowledge. A new and wide field opens before you. If industrious and attentive, its approach will be easy and pleasant, and amid its green pastures you may pluck bright flowers. To explore it in all its in-tricacies should be your unfailing aim—to search out the beauties of nature—to gather knowledge from the contemplation of her varied features, and from the structure of the delicate flower, the feeble insect, and all the subtler combinations of form and being, to learn the depth and extent of the wisdom of Him by whose power they were fash-

We have no doubt that all of you both perceive and are determined to observe the obligations which rest upon you. Be studious, punctual in your attendance, obedient and respectful to your teacher, polite in your deportment, kind and for-bearing in your intercourse with each other, and thus, when you leave this school, will you be prepared to enter profitably upon the more exalted duties of an active and honorable life.

I desire to address a few words to parents, in the tope of impressing their minds with the importance of certain duties which a long experience in our schools has demonstrated to have been sadly

Among the improvements and changes necessity has suggested in the school system of this city, none are regarded by those whose duty it is to provide for the many interests it involves, with deeper concern, or as possessing a higher importance than the introduction of the measure which we are called upon to-day to perfect. The school system of Sacramento is yet in its infancy. To establish, at once, a perfect organization, is impossible. With the growth of our city, with the exsible. With the growth of our city, with the ex-pansion of its resources, with an increasing popu-lation, these useful and benevolent institutions should not be permitted to stand still. Progress is demanded here as in all other departments of government. The spirit of the age is lastinct with this sentiment. It is written upon the pages of ception to that universal law which sweeps the world as with the steady hand of an unseen pow-

Whether the efforts of the Board to respond to success; whether this institution, organized for the benefit of your children and for the mental and moral cultivation of the youth of our city, is to moral cultivation of the youth of our city, is to fulfil the exalted purposes for which it is designed; whether it is destined to be perpetuated and de-veloped, an ornament to the city, the pride of its originators, and the dispenser of blessings, de-

and in enforcing obedience to the rules adopted for their guidance. Of this school, I will add only a word. In its establishment, we have endeavored to respond to what are believed to be the urgent demand of the population, being, at the same time, fully conscious our inability, in the present condition of the treasury, to accomplish much more than a begin-ning. In addition to those already admitted to its ivileges, a large proportion of those who pre-nted themselves for examination will be able, by a few weeks' review of certain important branches in which they were deficient, to come forward again with the certainty of success. It is confidently ex-pected that, on the first of October, the number of the pupils will not be less than thirty or thirty-five. We have faith to believe that the beginning now made is not inauspicious, and that, sustained by your generous co-operation, and the countenance and support of those in whose hearts the appeals made in behalf of the education of our youth find an ever prompt response, it will live to diffuse many blessings and hecome at length in other many blessings, and become at length, in other hands, and in the maturity of its strength, an ornament to our city, and an instrument of enduring good.

It is to be regretted that an enterprise, fraught with so much of promise to the educational interests of our young community, should not, on this occasion, have attracted thither a greater number of parents. There has, ever since the introduction of the Free School System into our city, been too much apathy manifested towards the schools by parents, who, of all others, should extend them their attention and encouragement.

We hope there will be less cause for complaint in this respect in the future. [Communicated.]

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1, 1856. EDITORS UNION :- The real friend of education, whether he be a teacher, an editor, or a "State superintendent," looks to the interests of the whole country. If he be a true patriot, he knows no sac tional distinctions-no North, no South ; courts no special favors of caste, or creed, or party; labors with no partial or local zeal, but considers himself born to do good in any section of country, and in every sphere of duty to which Providence and the suffrages of an intelligent people shall call him. He is never actuated by selfish motives. His field of labor is the State; his object, the people's advancemen and happiness; his home, the whole country; and his glory, the exaltation and glory of the nation.

These thoughts were suggested by reading in the Bulletin, of August 30th, an article headed "State Superintendent of Public Instruction," and by re-

Superintendent of Public Instruction," and by re-flecting upon the selfishness of some of our San Francisco friends (?) San Francisco is their only city on the Pacific coast. Here all their thoughts and interests center. No other localities possess such advantages port here the convict to the such advantages, nor have they any right to then Every educational convention must be held in San Francisco; the annual Teachers' Institute must be held in San Francisco; and having secured these, the "State Superintendent" must, at least, have his head-quarters in San Francisco. What reasons are assigned for their claims?

Why, their schools are expected to advance more rapidly than in other localities, on account of the "superior advantages" afforded. All books, apparatus, &c., must come from there. San Fran-cisco is, in fact, the great center and the natural head-quarters for such an institution as their public school system ! c school system ! Now, the fact of their having made great progress in educational matters, and organized "forty separate departments of schools," a "night school," a "union grammar school," and a "normal school for teachers, is no valid argument in favor of the State Superintendent's locating there, any more than in Sacramento, Stockton, Santa Clara or Marysville. His labors are most needed where the cause is neglected. Sacramento is more central than any other point, and, furthermore, this is the capital of the State. Wise and early legislation would do much for the cause of education; and the interests of the work require that their officers should reside here. Our school laws ought to be revised; we want an appropriation for the estab-lishment of an annual State Teachers' Institute or some is a should share reachers institute or normal school; and the Superintendent and friends of education should visit and petition the next Leg slature for the same. But a matter of far greater importance to every rue educator is not where the Superintenden shall reside, but who shall he be? He should be practical man, of much experience in educational interests. Better a practical, experienced teacher than any other, one who has not made the teacher's profession a stepping-stone to something considered higher; but who has labored for the advancement of the cause, the elevation of his chosen profession and regarding the moulding of mind and characte as the noblest and most honorable of callings—has devoted his life and talents to a work which, if properly tostered and conducted, shall constitute the true exaltation and glory of a nation.

No man unacquainted with the whole interests of education—who is not familiar with the Ameri-can school system—who knows not the responsibility, the nature and importance of the teacher's

A NUGGET .- A nugget of pure gold, weighing eighteen ounces and six grains, was recently picked up on Woods' Creek, near Columbia.

PIONEER ASSOCIATION .- This association meets this evening to settle up its business for the year, cers. Its membership seems to be constantly increasing, and it has already procured a library of well-selected, useful books, and a cabinet of shells. But when one thinks of the peculiar motive which these adventurers of FORTY-NINE have to organize and support a society of usefulness and perpetuity, nothing could be more unsatisfactory than the progress which the Pioneers of Sacramento have made. Indeed, the interest which the members of the Society have thus far manifested, is more a disgrace than commendation ; and we advise them either to evince a greater and more characteristic zeal, or to acknowledge at once that the circumstance which made them a FORTY-NINER was the result entirely of accident, energy or enterprize. Who is ready to make the

SAN JOAQUIN DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVEN-TION .- On Saturday, Aug. 30th, the Convention for the purpose of sending delegates to the Democratic State Convention, assembled in Stockton. Not having received the Republican, we are compelled to rely upon the Argus for our information. The Convention finally selected the follow ing delegates : S. R. Bradley, A. C. Baine, Thos. Jenkins, Wm. Lanius, Mark A. Evans, C. Grattan and E. Gove. In arriving at this conclusion. the Argus says a considerable amount of ill-feel. ing was engendered, as at the opening of the meeting the following gentlemen were canvassed for : Messrs. Creaner, Stakes, Lyons, Hodges, Huggins, Bradley, Jordan and A. C. Baine

SISKIYOU COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION .-This body met in Shasta on Saturday, August 23d, and nominated by acclamation B. F. Varney, of Scott Bar, for Assembly, and E. R. Stone, of Yreka, for District Attorney. The Convention, by ballot, selected the following delegates to the State Convention :

Geo. B. Potter, Scott Bar; Elijah Steele, Scott Valley; C. N. Thornbury, Deadwood; Geo. Frea-ner, W. S. R. Taylor, W. A. Robertson,, W. Grow, Wm, D. Slade, Yreka.

THE HIGHWAY .- On Sunday, Aug. 24th, as Mr. S. H. Hopkins was passing from Scott Bar to Yreka, when between Indian Creek and Dead Wood, a man appeared in the open ground and fired at him at the distance of a hundred yards. The Siskiyou Chronicle, from which we obtain the information, does not say what was the result. On the next day, another man from the same bar, when near the Mountain House, heard a cap snapped in the brush, but he does not appear to have been further molested.

LARGE HOTEL .- There is a frame hotel being built in Yreka which will have a front of eighty feet on Lane street, and run back one hundred feet on the plaza. This is doing well for the most remote northern town in the State.

TURNPIKE ROAD .- A company is about being formed for the purpose of constructing a first class turnpike road between Columbia and Sonora, in Tuolumne county.

ong the discouragements with which our schools have contended, none have been more schools have contended, hold have been more serious, or more disheartening than the want of an earnest, active, consistent co-operation on the part of parents. They send their children to school, but beyond this, manifest a seeming indifference in their education or improvement. They ac knowledge the necessity of system, of good gor-ernment but too often sympathize with the contender ernment, but too often sympathize with the caprices, and encourage the manifestations of a disobedient and rebellious spirit in their children. They re-cognize, when their attention is called to the subcognize, when their attention is called to the sub-ject, the importance of punctuality and regularity in attendance upon the exercises of the school, but indulge the slightest excuse for the neglect of this duty, and are ever ready to interpose the authority of parental sanction in favor of the delinquent. They expect their children to advance in their studies, and steadily to progress in the course of instruction adopted — they even complain of the inefficiency of the teacher, yet seldom perceive the force of the truth that improvement is incompatible with a capricious at-tendance upon school, and that the fault is refera-ble more to their own remissness of duty than to his neglect. These evils are not peculiar to Sacramento. They pervade Common Schools everywhere, yet, we believe, are most strikingly manifest in California. They present in their effects, a source of discouragement against which those more imme-diately interested in the education of youth have in vain contended, and are fatal to the most ener getic efforts to build up and perfect a good and ef cient school system. The propensity of youth, hen left to pursue their own inclinations, unchecked by parental control, and the persuasions, un-checked by parental control, and the persuasions of those who are old enough to appreciate the value of time, to neglect the advantages afforded them, is to well known to need any argument. They do not know-they cannot feel as we do, the They do not know-they cannot feel as we do, the importance of early mental discipline, nor do they stop to inquire, amid the gay hours of mirth and he sportive elasticity of youth, what will be the consequences of its omission. Facts and figures might be adduced to illustrate with the force of positive demonstration the prevalance of the evil f which we complain. One single example wil

Out of more than seven hundred children whose names are enrolled upon the school register, fully one-third are daily absent from their seats, and of names are very large proportion are tardy in one-third are daily absent from their seats, and of the remainder a very large proportion are tardy in reaching the school. The consequence of this con-dition of things upon the order of the school, upon the progress of the pupils and the regular and uni-form advancement of classes, will be evident upon a moment's reflection. It is prejudicial to the best directed efforts of the teacher, destructive of sys-tem, and ruinous in its influence upon the improve-ment of the children. That the responsibility of this unfortunate habit rests mainly upon the pa-rents, is evident from the testimony of our teach-rents, is evident from the testimony of our teach-ers, who are only justified in overfocking the de-rents, is evident from the testimony of our teachers, who are only justified in overfooking the delinquency by a written or other excuse from them. One of the first duties of every parent is that of visiting the school to which his child is attached. Its beneficial influence upon both teacher and pupil cannot be over-estimated. It encourages the one to fidelity in his labors and stimulates the other to assiduity in study. To the mind of a child, the approbation of those upon whom he is dependent is ever grateful. It is a sentiment strongly marked, and of powerful influence upon his conduct. We see it in our intercourse with children everywhere, and may note its development among the earliest manifestations of youthful intelligence. Upon the more mature mind, it becomes a strong incentive to exertion, and properly controlled, is capable of being made a highly conservative agent in the formation of character, and the practice of virtue. How important, then, that parents should rightly appreciate the advantages calculated to spring from the proper cultivation of their children! Upon the teacher, the effect of frequent visits from the parents of the uppils under his care, is most salutary, and if adopted by all interested in our public schools, would greatly promote their efficiency, and demonstrate the advantages for the responsibilities of their positions. They have been selected solely with reference to their ability and energy, and upon the most ample evidence of thorough qualification. In their names, I invite all who feel an interest in the cause of
