NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The news received vesterday from different parts of the State, which we publish this morning, although diversified, possesses no feature of partic ular interest. In some portions of the north the Indians have been manifesting a hostile intent, and on Pitt River, the home of the most dangerous, a number have been killed by United States troops. Although very little attention is given to the operations against the aborigines of the country, the work of extermination is going on slowly but surely, and not many years hence, but few of the original proprietors of the soil will remain as objects of either solicitude or fear to our inhabitants.

We have some further advices from Carson Valley, by the way of the Big Tree road, although the intelligence is not so late as has heretofore been received. We are gratified to perceive that a great deal of attention continues to be paid to the opening of communication across the mountains, the result of which will be, that the coming reaching the valleys of our State.

This week promises to be almost as busy an one among politicians, as was the last. The standard bearers of the Democratic and Republican parties will be upon the stump, in different quarters, and to-day the American County Convention meets in this city. That body will assemble, as we understand, in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, on Seventh street, between J and K, at 2 o'clock P. M. A full county ticket will be presented, and delegates to the State Convention appointed. The delegates to the County Convention were elected at a primary assemblage, held on Saturday last, the result of which will be found in another column. The State Convention will not meet until Tuesday of next week. Judge Ralston is now considered as the most prominent candidate for

On Saturday night, the Settlers held a mass meeting on the public square, in this city, and passed a series of strong resolutions, which will be found in our columns this morning. This party, it will be seen, are moving in the contest, and will, particularly in this county, present a strong front. These nominations will probably be made from the other tickets opposed to the Democracy.

On our first page will be found the Address and Platform of the National American Council reof the current history of the day, it will be read

THE TEHUANTEPEC ROAD.-We have seen a private letter from a gentleman now on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, to a friend in this county, containing some gratifying information. There is more value to be attached to it as it was not designed for publication. The letter was received by the last mail, and is dated at Tehuantepec, June 8th. The gentleman writes that he arrived there on the first of May last. He says the country is by far the most delightful he has ever been in. The topography of the country is pleasing to the eye, and the thermometer ranges from 60 to 85 degrees Fahrenheit. The soil is well suited to agricultural and grazing purposes, and all kinds of vegetation flourishes the year round. The country is well timbered and interspersed with chapparal. As to the great road from ocean to ocean, he says it is cut out and graded for stages, and only requires the bridges over the streams to make it complete. Not a week passes but numbers of persons cross on mules and horses from Minititlan, the seaport on the Atlantic side. The streams are not large and are easily forded. A few days before writing, two ships had arrived at Minititlan with the lumber intended for the construction of the bridges, already framed, together with the piledrivers, steam paddies, and all other necessary setting across that portion of the Continent, from ocean to ocean. The Mexican population are well disposed to the Americans, and treat them with courtesy, friendship and politeness. The writer is highly pleased with the country, and thinks his prospects are fair.

THE American County Convention, which meets to-day to nominate candidates for county offices, has it in its power to present a ticket which will unite the opposition and ensure the success of their nominees. The delegates should, if possible, select new men, who are well qualified, against whose personal character not a word can be justly uttered, and who have not rendered themselves obnoxious to others by their ultraism in politics. If they are in doubt to-day as to what they ought to do, let them wait until to-morrow. Above all, let them be sure that the rich paying offices do not lead to the sacrifice of the legislative ticket. Senator and Assemblymen we consider the first and most important offices in the county, and they are often overlooked in the scramble for the paying offices. As they do not pay, there are not so many aspirants for them. If the party desires to succeed, it should avoid ultra men and old political wire-workers and office-holders. Give the people some unexceptionable men to vote for, and we believe they will elect them in this county.

CANDIDATES for the nominations for the different county officers, it is rumored, will be plenty to-day before the Convention. For County Clerk, we hear there are ten very worthy citizens who stand ready to accept the nomination, if tendered; for Recorder nearly as many. For the highly responsible position of County Judge, the only name we have heard mentioned prominently is that of Robert Robinson. To the people this is an office of vital interest; so are those of District Attorney and Sheriff. For the latter position, E. E. Eyre, the present Under Sheriff, stands prominent. To succeed Frank Hereford, we have heard no one mentioned but himself, though we suppose other names have been used in connection therewith.

The names of several gentlemen have been canvassed for Senator, but we have heard of no Amador county-was a candidate for the Constanding prominently forward. In the county we have heard no names mentioned, for either for Lieutenant Governor. the Senate or Assembly.

MAIL ROUTE.

From the news brought by the last steamer, we judge that the politicians who are authorised by the law to take a hand in the decision of the question, are likely to succeed in locating the rendered during the APRIL TERM of the Court, which great Atlantic and Pacific Mail upon the border route of the south. Bids have been made to carry it over other routes, but we presume that political considerations will overbalance all others, and force a decision in favor of the border

The entering wedge has been driven, in the contract given to James E. Burch, to transport the mail temporarily semi-monthly from San Antonio, in Texas, to San Diego, in California. For this service Burch is to receive $149,800 per annum-to come through from point to point in twenty-five days. We now have a mail twice a month by sea; the contract with Burch is also to deliver a mail twice a month, which, if they leave upon alternate weeks, might possibly give us a weekly mail the year round. But no mail service from New York, or from New Orleans via San Antonio, can be performed by Mr. Burch or any one else, in twenty-five days. It will require nearly or quite half that time from New York to San Antonio. The mail must reach the latter place by steamer from New Orleans to Matagorda Bay, in the Gulf of Mexico, and the voyage itself would occupy several days. From immigration will have little or no difficulty in San Antonio to El l'ase, is several hundred miles, and most of the way over comparatively a desert. A military road was opened by the United States forces, which marched from the former to the latter place a few years since. But the troops fell behind their time, and in November lost all their cattle in a storm of > storms of the Sierra Nevada. Why a contract is let from that point, and along that line-or under what law, we are not advised. So far as California interests are involved, a route might just about as well have been established, and a contract let, to run a mail line from San Antonio to Mexico, or to Guaymas. Passengers, except in limited numpers, will never come to the State by that route, for most men will prefer, if they have to go to sea at all, to sail directly for Aspinwall, and from Panama to San Francisco, rather than make a four days voyage from New Orleans to Matagorda, and after reaching San Diego, another voyage of three days to San Francisco.

This contract is the pilot fish to the shark, in the shape of the great Atlantic and Pacific mail. cently adopted at Louisville, Kentucky. As part It will be an argument in favor of uniting the two routes, as the Postmaster-General will be able to show as an argument in favor of accepting a bid for that route, that it will save the $149,800 which he has agreed to give Burch.

In the movements upon this California mai business the real interests and wishes of California do not seem to have been taken into the es timate. Even her own Senators and Representatives appear to have cheerfully concurred in the foregone conclusion that the mail must be carried by the Southern border route. They did not raise their voices to protest against the infliction of such a wrong upon California.

The professed argument against the middle route which is pressed upon the authorities at Washington by the Senators from Texas and other Southern States, as well as by editors and letter writers is, that the depth of snow renders that route impracticable-an argument which is unworthy of serious consideration. As an obstacle to travel, the snow on the parallel of 42 is slight compared with the heat of the sun under the 32d parallel.

It is said the mail from St. Louis to Salt Lake fails for months in the winter, because of the snow. This may be true, and still the fact be entitled to no weight, for the reason that there are no regular stands for changes of horses-no settlements rendering it necessary to keep the road open-no provisions made for carrying the mail implements. The work will be prosecuted to a at all hazards. The mail was carried in an ordicompletion with vigor. The writer says the nary emigrant wagon, and was not expected to tinu make better time than a common traveling party. Let a thoroughly organized line of four horse coaches, with stands at suitable distances where teams could be changed, be put upon that line. and the mail would go through without difficulty. in our opinion, any month in the year.

The Post Office Department appears to lose sight of every consideration, except that of carrying the mail. The interest of the country, the convenience of the traveling public, the facilities of settlement, the encouragement of emigration, and the fact that nine hundred out of every thousand emigrants who have come or who will come to California by land, have taken and will hereafter take the central route in order to reach the State, regardless of all the mail lines the government may establish on the Southern border route, seem to have been forgotten. The central is the great emigrant thoroughfare, and there is where the mail line should be located. If not placed there at first, events which politicians cannot control will force it or another one upon the central route, as the one of all others, most convenient and desirable for the people of the Union.

We have reports that some ten thousand wagons are now on their way to California, on the central route, while we do not hear of a single team that has left El Paso for the Pacific. And still, in the face of these facts, the Post Master General is likely to enter into a contract for carrying the mail over the extreme Southern road. To us, such folly is unaccountable. INDEPENDENT DEMOCRATIC TICKET .- The Dem crats who are dissatisfied with the county nominations in El Dorado, are making up an independent ticket. We understand that it is nearly completed. The candidate for District Attorney is Samuel J. K. Handy. This gentleman, it would appear from a brief history of his political career in the Mountain Democrat, has been frequently an applicant for office, but has never yet succeeded. He arrived in California in 1854. In 1855, he was a candidate in that county for the nomination for District Attorney. The same year he was an applicant for the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. In 1856, he removed to one upon whom the choice had settled. For gressional nomination. In 1857, he returned to Assembly, we hear the names of Moses Stout and | El Dorado and was a candidate for the vacant William Bausman, presented from the city, as position of District Attorney, and we believe he was also, at the late State Convention, spoken of

At this time he noticed that the fire had been set to a pile of papers, shavings, &c., under the rear of a vacant building near the angle of the block. As no one came to his assistance, and the fire spread with extreme rapidity, he was compelled to abandon the hose and attend to the safety of his family, who barely had time to escape, being unable to save anything of their effects. In fact, with but one or two exceptions, the tenants of the buildings. one or two exceptions, the tenants of the buildings were forced to leave everything behind them, saving only their clothing. BRUSH FIRE-MORE INCENDIARISM.-A few min ates previous to the discovery of the fire corner of J and 5th streets, yesterday morning, a pile of dry twigs was fired within a few feet of the fence of Mr. Heywood, corner of O and 2d streets. The ender of one of the other companies followed soon afterwards, but returned, the 5th street fire break afterwards, but returned, the 5th street fire breaking out while it was en route. The tender of Engine No. 3 proceeded to the fire, which was soon extinguished with a hydrant stream. It is very probable that there was a concert of action between the incendiaries of O and 5th streets, on this occasion, but the latter set the train before the light of the brush heap had called out the entire epartment and drawn them to a point so far dis ant from the scene of their operations.

FROM PITT RIVER - THIRTY-FIVE INDIANS KILLED .- The Yreka Union of July 16th, says: From Lieut. Saunders, who arrived in town on Monday last, direct from Pitt River Valley, we learn the particulars of a skirmish between twenty-five regulars under command of Lieut. Crook, and a large body of Indians, supposed to ihave numbered about one hundred and fifty. The fight occurred in the mountains about twenty-five miles from the fort, where they were taken by surprise. Lieut. Crook observing their fire camps at a distance, advanced with great caution, being the only mode of getting into a fight with them. They surmode of getting into a fight with them. They surrounded the Indian sentinel, who on giving the alarm was instantly shot, and the soldiers then charging on the rancheria, completely routed and killed thirty-five of them, besides wounding as many more. The Indians fled to the rocks and mountains in the vicinity, dragging their wounded with them, so that no exact estimate could be ascertained as to the rocks. with them, so that no exact estimate could be ascertained as to the number left dead. Many of the bodies of the Indians were discovered to be hot through and through—three men of Lieut. Crook's command were slightly wounded. The above fight took place on the 2d of July, in a very rough country, where the Indians could escape without effective pursuit. The fort is located six miles this side of the ferry, and is christened with the name of "Fort Crook." Lieut. Crook estimates the number of Indians in the Valley of the state ate at the number of Indians in the Valley at five undred warriors. The Indians are also said to hundred warriors. The Indians are also said to watch the road, and should they meet a single person they will undoubtedly murder him. Lieut. Saunders says the person hanging to a tree at the junction of Fall and Pitt rivers, is an Indian, not a white mau, as before reported to us, and the Indians have a superstitious fear of approaching the dangling body. On the 4th of July, a man named Dickman, formerly employed by George Heard at Sheep Rock, in Shasta Valley, was killed by Indians near the ferry. An arrow struck him on the shoulder, and penetrated downward into his lungs. We were shown a sample of their arrows by John Loag. The head is made of brittle glass, such as found among the rocks on Shasta Butte, with a sharp point, and free from poison. No firearms have yet been discovered in the possession of these Indians.

River-Politics, &c. MORMON ISLAND, July 18, 1857. EDITORS UNION: -As I had a little leisure time. I thought I would give you a history of my rambles up and down the river from this place. The first place we came to was the Beal's Bar claim, distant about one mile below the junction of the North and South Forks of the American River. North and South Forks of the American River. This claim was worked successfully the last season, yielding those interested, six in number, a clear profit of about $4,000 to the share. The claim is now owned by Alfred Spinks, J. S. S. Robinson, and George Baker, formerly of the Pacific Express, at this place. They are all men of capital, and under the efficient management and experience of their Superintendent, Mr. Robinson, they may well expect a rich terms. rience of their Superintendent, Mr. Robinson, they may well expect a rich reward for their investment. The claim is one thousand feet long, and will be all put in working order this season. They expect to work eighty Chinamen, and fifty or sixty white men. Mr. Robinson has commenced putting in his works, with a full determination of having them in order by the middle of August. A large boarding house has been erected on the claim, sufficient to accommodate about sixty persons.

After leaving this claim, the next we came to was the Alabama. A company attempted to work it last season, but it proved a total failure.

was the Alabama. A company attempted to work it last season, but it proved a total failure. A new camp has been formed, and they are taking hold with energy this season, anticipating the results of '53, during which season there was taken out of the claim $75,000. the claim $75,000.

Passing on up the river, you pass several claims in preparation for work, when you arrive at S. G. Elliott's claim, which was worked last season by Chinamen, and will be worked this season with Chinamen, and will be worked this season with better prospects than last.

You leave the junction, at which place there are a number of claims in preparation for work, and pass on up the South Fork till you come to the claim of George Ingles. He is working about 30 Chinamen, and is getting along as fast as the high stage of the water will permit. The next claim of importance in this vicinity is the claim of J. H. Williamson & Co., in Blue Ravine, about 100 rods from this place. Mr. Williamson, (who is the Williamson & Co., in Bine Ravine, about 100 roas from this place. Mr. Williamson, (who is the present nominee of the Republican party for County Treasurer,) opened his claim in the early part of 1854, and continued his labors for about one of 1854, and continued his labors for about one year, having cleared four or five thousand dollars. At this time, he came to a high ridge of rocks that cross the ravine, and it became necessary to make a cut through in order to mine successfully. He commenced the work at an estimate of $5,000 and one years' time. The year passed away, and the work was but about half completed, and his money nearly all expended; but he did not stop here. His indomitable perseverance and energy, together nearly all expended; but he did not stop here. His indomitable perseverance and energy, together with his known honesty, secured to him the aid necessary to complete the work, and by the end of another year he was again out of debt, it having cost him $8,000. Since January 1st, 1857, with the labor of six men, he has taken out $25,000, with equally as good prospects for the next ten years to come.

years to come.

You next pass a claim being worked by Chinamen and formerly owned by John Shaw, when you arrive at Wild & Co.'s claim, near Shaw's bridge.

They are working thirty Chinamen, and have already, six hundred feet of their race in order. They are putting in two hundred feet of flume, and intend to have their claim dry by the middle of Angust

The next is Wadhams' claim, on the south The next is Wadhams' claim, on the south branch of the river, which formed the Island, which was worked by the Mormons in 1848, and from which this little town took its name. They have their dam in and have worked one week with six men, taking out about $100 per day.

The next claim is D. King's, called the Natoma, which will be worked this season.

You then come to the Union claim, which is being worked by about thirty Chinamen, under the superintendence of Samuel Freeman. This claim has not been worked since 1852, and the shareholders anticipate a rich reward for their investment.

ADDRESS OF THE AMERICAN COUNCIL. - The American National Council which met in Louisville, Kentucky, has issued an address and resolutions, which we to-day lay before our readers. It is ably written, the language calm and respectful; the sentiments expressed, and principles defined and avowed, will doubtless meet the approval of all national Americans. All secrecy, it will be seen, is abolished, and hereafter the only bond between members of the American party is to be one of honor. The address and resolutions will be read on the Pacific side with deep interest.

BARN AND GRAIN BURNED .- A correspondent writes us from the town of El Dorado, that on Friday night, July 18th, at about one o'clock. the barn of Mr. Lambert, near Frenchtown, El Dorado county, was destroyed by fire, with its contents. His entire crop of grain, valued at $1,500 had been housed, and the total loss is estimated at $2,000. The fire was the work of an incendiary. This property composed the entire wealth of Mr. Lambert, who is a cripple.

SLANDER SUIT .- Two suits have been com menced in the District Court for Amador county, by the Rev. P. Y. Cool, of Volcano, a Methodist clergyman, against the editor of the Jackson Sentinel, and S. M. Farmer, for $10,000 damages in each case. The complaint is founded on an article in the Sentinel of the 4th inst. charging Mr. Cool with keeping a pair of blank ets borrowed of S. M. Farmer.

LITTLE DORRIT COMPLETE. - Little Dorrit is an last complete. This will be a pleasant announcement to the many admirers of Dickens, for the last chapter of none of his works has been looked forward to with so much anxiety as this. For an advance copy we are indebted to the enterprising publisher, T. B. Peterson, of Philadelphia through Kirk & Co., booksellers of this city, who have copies of the work on hand.

New Music,-We have received from R. Dale & Co several new pieces of music for the piano. Among them, "Progressive Parlor Rondo's," including "Ricardot "The Bulfinch Quadrilles," &c., &c. Also, ballads by Wallace, and arranged by Converse STRAYED OR STOLEN. - Or

The horse has but three shoes on, having cast one during the day. In the buggy was a valuable double-barreled gun, belonging to Gov. J. C. Smith, of Sacramento. Whoever will return said property to the stable of Frank Frost, corner of I and 2d streets, or give information that will lead to their recovery, shall be liberally rewarded.
