CITY INTELLIGENCE. ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.—Robert Robinson County Judge, and E. B. Crocker, of this city, having landed interests on Russian river, Sonoma county, left Sacramento about two weeks since on a visit to that county to attend to them. On Tuesday last, Judge Robinson, accompanied by his wife and child, left Cloverdale in a buggy for Sacramento, via Benicia, and when about four miles on his journey, while passing through a piece of timber, was fired upon by some person, unknown, with a rifle, who was lying in wait. The fire was from the rear of the carriage, through the back curtain, and the ball struck the Judge's left shoulder, high up, and passed through in an oval course and passed out in front. No person was in sight at the time, and the Judge drove on to the nearest point. fourteen miles, where he could sight at the time, and the Judge drove on to the nearest point, fourteen miles, where he could receive assistance, and got his wound dressed. The wound was found, on examination, to be slight, the ball having probably been turned upward in its course by the inclined position of the body at the time it struck. The cause of this destrably and mandarants attack is not recitivaly body at the time it struck. The cause of this dastardly and murderous attack is not positively known, but is supposed to originate from a party of squatters, who have been ousted from lands of the Judge by a recent judicial decision, and by those who feel grieved at the result. However this may be, it was a most cowardly attack, and the perpetrator ought to be searched out and apprished. out and punished

THE DESTITUTE KANAKA.-A poverty-stricken and destitute subject of the Prince who received so many favors and was shown such kind hospi tality in this city a few days ago, was found near the furnace of the Pioneer Mills, on First street, Wednesday evening, where he had crawled to keep from being chilled to death. The man's pantaloons were on fire when discovered, and one of his legs burned to a blister. He is in a very weak, if not dying condition, and should be again taken to the Hospital. Last evening at nine o'clock he was laying at the place found, where he was fed by some of the people in that vicinity. If he dies where he lays, his death will leave a stigma upon the people of Sacramento not soon to be forgotten. THE WING DAM .- The work of pile-driving at Rabel's Tannery, at B and Twenty-eighth streets, on the bend of the American river, was commenced on Tuesday last, but temporarily suspended on Wednesday, on account of the rain. Yesterday, however, the scaffolding built for the support of the pile-driver began to sink, and it was thought it would be necessary to substitute a scow instead. The contractor has probably but a few days to finish this work, and a delay by accidents like the above may place the completion of the job beyond his power. Both haste and judgment are requisite in this

EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS .- We learn that it is the intention of the Board of Examination for the county of Sacramento to hold a session on Saturday (to-morrow) at 11 o'clock, A.M., for the purpose of deciding upon the qualification of applicants for teachers of the Public Schools As this may be the last opportunity which will occur for some time, those desirous of teaching, and who have not yet passed the ordeal required by the law, will do well to be present. The examination will take place at the High School room. THE BOAT RACE .- The third boat race, between the same boats, is arranged to come off next Monday (provided the day is calm), on the Sacramento river. In the former race, the light boat was backed by Henry McCluskey, but rowed by Kennedy. In the coming trial this boat will be manned by McCluskey, and the blue boat, as before, by Harry Brown. The stakes are $800, and the race will be closely contested. The distance is five miles, instead of two, as PERFORMING POLICE DUTY .- The alarm of fire on Wednesday evening brought out several engines and hose carriages, which were run up the north sidewalk of J street to the serious detriment of goods, wares and merchandise obstructing the same. A large heavy fire engine can remove more boxes, bags and barrels in five minutes, than a police officer in a day. "Look out for the engine when the bell rings."

SUPREME COURT .- The following judgments were entered in this Court on yesterday : Roach et al. vs. Gray et al., judgment affirmed; Collins vs. Montgomery et al., judgment affirmed; Garfield vs. Knight's Ferry and Tuolumne M. Water Co. (No. 1.), judgment affirmed; Garfield vs. Knight's Ferry and Tuolumne M. Water Co. (No. 2.), judgment affirmed; Fagg vs. Clements, judgment affirmed.

AT HALF MAST .- The flags of the sail vessels in the harbor vesterday were suspended at half mast, in respect to the memory of Captain Benjamin Williston, of the schooner Long Island who died at San Francisco on Tuesday last. The Long Island was trading between Sacramento and the Bay. We learn that Captain Willis-ton was highly respected as a gentleman and a RAILROAD CUT .- The cut through the levee, at the foot of Tenth street, has been opened for several days, affording great convenience to teamsters hauling to and from the brick-kilns in that vicinity. The job, however, is yet to be finished by bricking up, in order to support the banks on either side. POLICE COURT-BARR, JUDGE.-There was only one case before the Police Court yesterday. John Hamilton, arrested on Wednesday as a vagrant, was examined, and his case taken under advisement. Judging from the testimony before the Court, it is safe to say he will be dis-

COMMERCIAL .- A strong north wind prevailing yesterday, the schooners on the river were unable to come up. The sloop Caroline is loading brick, and the America commences to load cob-ble to-day. Sailed, in ballast: Sloops Wasp and Randall, and schooners Martha Elizabeth and Andrew Jackson.

FINE APPLES .- A full wagon load of as good looking apples as ever fell from a Yankee tree, were in market yesterday from Taylor's orchard, on the Cosumnes river. This locality seems to be, from various samples we have seen, a favorable locality for the growth of this POLITICAL DISCUSSION .- A large meeting was held last evening at Washington, composed of Douglas and Lincoln men. It was organized amidst the discharge of heavy cannon by the Wide Awakes of this city. The opening speech for the Republicans was made by Dr. Reed, who was followed by Mr. Wykoff for the Douglasites.

ARRESTED YESTERDAY .- Henry Weaver, by officers Taylor and Cody, petit larceny of thirtyfive dollars from Madam Mercedes; Rosa Patch, by Constable Nesmith, disturbing the peace; George H. Baker, by Constable Haden, destroying a promissory note.

EXAMINATION POSTPONED .- The examination of the Mexican under arrest for stealing Waterman's horse, set yesterday before Justice Cog-gins, was continued by consent of parties, till next Saturday.

DISTRICT COURT .- This Court will meet this morning at half-past ten o'clock, when motions will be in order, and the calendar called and cases passed or set for trial.

FOR STOCKTON.-Jacob Smith, several days ago certified by a medical commission to be insane, will be taken to Stockton this morning by Deputy Sheriff Knox.

WORK ON THE CAPITOL.—The excavation for the basement of the Capitol was finished yesterday by contractor Fennel, and to-day he com mences laying the concrete work. EXPLODED.-The old iron cannon, used las evening at Washington by the Wide-Awakes, was blown into atoms, on about the twentieth discharge. Fortunately, no one was hurt. MATERIAL FOR FALSE ALARMS .- A large de posit of refuse hay was made yesterday on Fourth street, between K and L streets.

MARRIAGE NOTICE CONTRADICTED. - In the Union of Monday last, a notice of the marriage of S. H. Alverson and Miss Susan Gilpin, of Fiddletown, was published. We are assured on good authority that no marriage took place, and the conclusion is that some scoundrel, for purposes of revenge or mischief, sent a fictitious notice to the Union. If any one in the above locality can render us any information in reference to the party guilty of this imposition, we will give the criminal the benefit of a first rate

This affair came off, agreeably to announce ment, October 23d. Large numbers attended from San Francisco, and they were joined by delegations from various portions of Sonoma county. The San Francisco Evening Gazette

In a cluster of large spreading live-oak trees, in the eastern division of the town, the speaker's platform and seats for the audience were arranged. To the left of the platform, and somewhat in advance of it, was the table, platform, and somewhat in advance of it, was the table, doubtless placed in that particular situation to attract the attention of the speakers and admonish them to be brief, as the speaking was done before the eating. The table was constructed in the form of a cross, the longer arm being about one hundred feet, and the shorter fifty feet in length; and on it was what was once a large cow, but since reduced to a large plece of nicely cooked beef in the shape of a cow, some roots lives, and bread beef in the shape of a cow, some roots lives, and bread cow, but since reduced to a large piece of nicely cooked beef in the shape of a cow; some roast pigs; and bread and cheese enough to supply the whole city of Petaluma

Addresses were made by Messrs. Wilson, Chairman of the Sonoma County-Central Committee; Churchman, of Nevada; E. D. Baker, E. B. Crocker, F. M. Pixley and Manchester. The remarks of Colonel Baker are reported as follows:

We are on the very verge of a great election, and all the signs in earth and heaven proclaim that we are about to win a great victory. The hearts and the arms of free labor are about to rear to the Presidential chair one of their noblest and truest minded companions; and we, though distant from the great centers of population, are here to swell their praises and enjoy their triumph. [Applause.] The time for argument is passed; the time for action has arrived; and we are met upon the eve of the great battle, to assign to each other, whether officer or soldier, his weapon and his place; and I, from a distant, though a kindred State, come among my old friends and neighbors to reiterate in your presence the words of cheer and of greeting that are welcoming us and you upon every hand. While I speak, the thunder of the guns is yet ringing in my ears that tell me of Ohio [cheers], of Indiana [great applause], of Pennsylvania. [Immense cheering.] And before the echo of my voice shall fairly have passed away, Ohio, and Indiana, and Pennsylvania, and New York, will hear the surging echoes coming back from Oregon and from California. [Applause.] Upon the eve of an important strife, let us see for a little while, O people of every State! for what the great contest is waged. First, the Republican party of this Union are emphatically a party of the whole. False are they who insinuate otherwise. Traitors are they to the old battles of the Revolution—to the recollection of our nobler and better years. who dare to intimate that we, the great party of the North and West, can have, shall tolerate, or will submit to the Idea of disunion in any place or anywhere [applause]; and our first duty is to repet that idea.

The Colonel then went on to argue that while the that idea.

The Colonel then went on to argue that while the

that idea.

The Colonel then went on to argue that while the question of slavery was of vast importance, the question of free labor deeply to be considered, of commerce and agriculture, of literature, of morals, of religion—though all were the subjects of freeman's action and thought; but above, beyond them, higher, deeper, broader, was the idea of the Union of these States—"Liberty and Union, now and forever—one and inseparable." [Tremendous applause.] And now, upon the eve of a success, the Republican party would announce that their first principle, their first sentiment, iirst feeling, first love, is for the union of these States. [Great applause.] Four years ago, he said, the opposition parties went with hypocritical twang from the city to the country, and from this county to that—I heard them—saying, "Oh, these Republicans, these Abolitionists, they'll dissolve this God blessed Union." Where are those fellows now? [Applause and laughter.] Every one of the Breckinridge and—who's the other man nomicated with him?—oh! General Lane. [Great laughter and cheering.] I don't say—far be it from me to say—that all who vote for Breckinridge are disunionists. I won't say that: but I will come very near it, and say that every disunionist is a Breckinridger, from Yancey up or down; I don't know which way to go. [Cheere.] The speaker next referred to the present Administration, treating it seriously, yet so humorously as to keep the audience in a roar of laughter and applause. He then explained the course he, as a Senator, in ended to pursue in reference to the public lands. The United States were going to conquer or steal a great deal more territory—that is free now. He would do his best, as a Republican and Senator, to dedicate that free territory to free labor and free men forever. [Applause]

After reviewing the different lines of policy proposed orever. [Applause]

After reviewing the different lines of policy propose forever. [Applause]

After reviewing the different lines of policy proposed by the different parties, he concluded as follows: People of California! You are now about to wheel into the great procession of free States. We have waited a long time; we move very slowly; the gate creaks as it turns upon its hinges; but it will turn at last. And Oregon, too, in my judgment to-day, Oregon will do the same thing; and that being so, all the free States—all the free States—will wheel into that great proce sion for liberty and for freedom. Don't mistake. We have beaten the Democracy two or three times before. How did we do it? We beat them by their mere mal-administration, or else by the popularity of military men. If Lincoln were to die in one month after his election, the case would be different. The case would not retrograde. There is a foundation. We don't build upon the sand. The great idea of free labor, free land, free speech, t'e railroad—these are the great ideas, so written by the hand of God himself on the popular heart; and no work of man, no work of dea'h, no finger of destruction, can effect one single letter of that glorious inscription. The procession will go on. It will keep time to the great music of humanity. * * Now people from every State, now farmer, mechanic, merchant, lawyer, now young man and old man, rich man and poor man, I call upon you to join with us, and march in that great procession for free land and free labor. Free speech is your right, speech earned by the blood of your fathers. Free labor free speech, free thought, free homes, free men. As you do this, each in his day and generations, you will do something to promote the interests of the country to which your best his day and generation, you will do something to pro-mote the interests of the country to which your best labor and your best thoughts are due. Enroll yourselves in that bright procession that is made up of the thought, and action, and wisdom, and virtue of every age and every land. This is my invocation to you, and with it I bid you a cordial and heartfelt farewell. [Loud and prolonged applause.]

THE HORRIBLE MURDER IN SAN FRANCISCO .-The Evening Gazette, of October 24th, gives the following particulars of the murder referred to in our columns vesterday: One of the most atrocious crimes that it has ever been our lot to chronicle, was committed yesterday, at the milk ranch of one Johnson, who lives about one mile south of Lone Moun tain. The victims of this cold blooded butchery are the wife and daughter of Johnson, and a hired man, named William Cooke, The facts are about as follows: Johnson came into this city yesterday morning, bringing with him his son, a lad about fifteen years of age, who attends the Hyde Street School: leaving at home his wife and daughter, aged thirteen years, and the hired man Cooke. Johnson was detained in the city by business, until a late hour. In the mean-time the son returned home from school, and opening the door of the house, what a sight was presented to his horrified gaze! His mother and sister were lying on the floor, with their heads split open with an ax, which lay at hand, covered with blood and hair. The sister was quite dead, and the mother, though still breathing, perfectly senseless. The house was full of smoke, having been set on fire. The boy ran to the house of Martin, the negrest neighbor, and obtaining his assistance, they both returned to the house and extinguished the fire. They then dragged the bodies of the victims out into the open air, and the boy immediately mounting a horse, rode hurriedly into town. When near the house of Gladding, the Poundkeeper, on Larkin street, he was thrown from his horse. Gladding observing the accident, ran to his assistance, and hearing his story, immediately went to the Police Office, and communicated the facts to the Chief of Police. Chief Burke, together with officer Conway and Captain Douglas, at once proceeded to the place. There lay the bodies in all their ghastliness, and near by the bloody instrument with which the deed was evidently committed. It was at once supposed that the perpetrator of the horrid murder was the man Cooke, who had been missing since eleven o'clock in the morning. When last seen he was chopping wood near the house. Messengers were immediately dispatched in every direction to ferret out the supposed murderer.

This morning, about six o'clock the body of Cooke was discovered hid away in the bushes, about two hundred yards away from the house. He had been spading about fifteen rods from the house, and his spade was found stuck in the ground. Near it were two little pieces of his skull. His head had been completely broken in so that when turned over, a great quantity of his brains poured out. He had no boots on, and nis brains pointed but. He had no boots on, and a new pair of boots, recently purchased, were missing. These were the only articles missing. In his pocket was found some three or four dollars. Nothing was taken from the house.

From all the evidences, it would appear that the year Cooks was first murdered and the

from all the evidences, it would appear that the man, Cooke, was first murdered, and that the inmates of the house were afterwards killed to cover up the traces of the first act. The bed was then fired. Fully one fourth of the skull of the daughter was broken in, The mother had received a blow upon the right temple, producing a fracture. She was this morning brought into town to the house of a friend, Mrs. Finnegan, who lives on the corner of Hyde and Post of Hyde and Rush streets. There is scarcely a chance of her recovery, or of her regaining con-sciousness. A consultation was this afternoon held to take into consideration the propriety of trepanning the skull, in the hope that she may o far recover as to give some clue to the affair. It was evident that the body of Cooke had been dragged to the place where it was found, as there were footsteps about. The body of Cooke was this morning brought to the dead house, preparatory to holding an inquest.

All that Chief Burke can ascertain is, that on Sunday a crazy Kanaka was at the Cemetery, and was gioeted by the keeper. and was ejected by the keeper. Since that time the Kanaka has not been seen. The Chief thinks that the deed was committed either through revenge, or by some insans person.

There is no apparent motive for the deed, and up to this time all is shrouded in mystery, and as far as we can now see, is likely to be. Chief ther developments in this case, as far as we can now see, is likely to be. Chief Burke has messengers out in every direction, scouring the whole country about, in hopes of finding some clue to the mystery. Every nook and corner in the immediate vicinity have been thoroughly searched. The whole neighborhood is in a state of excitement, as is indeed the whole city. It is the principal topic of conversation on the streets. We shall look anxiously for further developments in this case. 1,000 gallons ALCOHOL; Just received by FULLER & HEATHER, from ships less than any other house in this State.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE IN OREGON .-According to an extra of the Stateman, dated October 17th, this body met at Salem, on that day, when the following, among other action, was had :

On motion, Major James Bruce, of Jackson county, was nominated by acclamation as candidate for Presidential elector, in place of W. Hoffman, declined. On motion, the Committee proceeded to bal lot for a candidate for Representative to the Thirty-seventh Congress. A. J. Thayer, of Benton, having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared the unanimous choice of the Committee, and the candidate of the Democratic party.

The following address was adopted: The Democratic State Central Committee, by authority vested in them by the State Convenauthority vested in them by the State Conven-tion, held in Eugene City, September 18th, have this day nominated A. J. Thayer, of Benton county, for Congress, and in doing so feel im-pelled, by the attendant circumstances, to give the reasons for their action. It is well known hat at the last June election a canvass was had, and candidates run without any authority of law, and at that election, in consequence of its nvalidity, and for other reasons, many Democrats refused to vote, while many others were induced to vote for him under a misappreheninduced to vote for him under a misapprenen-sion of his true position upon the prominent political issue of the day—non-intervention— and by their non-action the intervention can-didate received the greatest number of votes, and now holds a certificate to that effect upon which, it is understood, he intends to base his claims to the seat; believing, as we do, that the principles he advocates are pernicious in theory and subversive of the highest interests of our common country if carried into practice, and that in case he obtains the seat, the genuine

Two CHINAMEN KILLED BY AN INDIAN.—On the 17th inst., says the Plumas Standard, an Indian, upposed to be one called Jack, and very well supposed to be one called Jack, and very well known at Nelson Point and Quincy, took it into his head, while passing the China camp, on Peoria Bar, to draw the life-current of some of the Chinamen. Whereupon, having a rifle in his possession, he coolly commenced shooting, and the result was that two celestials, Yang and Lamb, were killed.

The Standard gives the sequel to the above Indian Jack, who, it is supposed, killed the Chinamen on Peoria Bar, was killed by a man named Geo. Larkin, near Judkin's Mill, in this named Geo. Larkin, near Judkin's Mill, in this valley, under the following circumstances: After the killing of the Chinamen on Peoria Bar, the Chinese residents of that place offered a reward of $150 for the arrest of the murderer. Accordingly, Joe Howland started in pursuit of the Indian who was supposed to have committed the deed. He came to Quincy, and prevailed on this man Larkin to accompany him. They found this Indian at Cate's slaughter yard, and immediately proceeded to arrest him. After a short scuffle his gun was taken from him, and was in the hands of Larkin, Joe Howland still trying to subdue Jack. At last he broke loose, and started to run. He was called to repeatedly to stop, but would not, and was then fired upon by Larkin, the ball taking effect in his back, causing almost instant death. Larkin immediately left, and has not been heard of since.

PESQUEIRA OVERTHROWN .- The Overland Mai arrived at Visalia yesterday at five o'clock P. M., bringing important news from the State of Sonora. The following gentlemen arrived passengers on the stage: Sylvester Mowry, United States Boundary Commissioner; E. J. Pringle, M. Sellier and James Wilson. It was reported at Tucson that Governor Pesqueira had been deserted by his Secretary of State, Manuel Monteverdo, and other leading men, and that he had suffered a defeat in a pitched battle with the Gandarastas, or friends of Manuel Gandara, who, at the last advices, were in possession of the Plaza of Hermosillo. It will be remembered that, according to former advices, President arrived at Visalia yesterday at five o'clock P. M. that, according to former advices, President Juarez had conferred the Government of So-nora upon General Lamberg, a Swede by birth, but a naturalized citizen of Mexico, and that but a naturalized citizen of Mexico, and that Pesqueira had refused to recognize the authority of Juarez. In consequence of this refusal, Gen-eral Lamberg had been compelled to look out for his own personal safety, as it was thought quite probable that Pesqueira would seek to have him assassinated. Manuel Monteverdo was Secretary of State and supposed to be wedded to the interests of Pesqueira, and as he wielded great influence in Sonora, by reason of his wealth and family interest, the cause of Pes-queira was deemed impregnable. This fancied security seems to have been ill advised, for Manuel Gandara, the mortal enemy of Pesqueira, and the promoter of the Yaqui rebellion, nearly all the Yaquis being followers of Gandara, has availed himself of the opportunity to crush his old foe.—S. F. Herald, October 24th,

JUDGE HARDY'S CONFESSION.—The Red Bluff Beacon, of October 24th, gives the following confession of Judge Hardy, now stumping for Breckinridge:

After all we heard Judge James H. Hardy say about the regularity of Douglas' nomination, we are sorry to see him in the ranks of the seces sionists, and making political speeches at that, in favor of Breckinridge. Just after the nominations were received, the Judge was on a visit to his father-in-law, Colonel Titus, of this county. He called into the Beacon office the week after we had raised the Douglas banner to our masthead, and congratulated us on the straight forward, consistent and true Democratic course we had taken. He said no matter how a man felt personally toward Mr. Douglas, it was the duty of every Democrat, who had the future prosperity of the party at heart, and wished to fight inside of the organization, to support that gentleman for the Presidency. Says he, "Fisher if you only knew of the many sleepless nights have passed, while those who knew me thought I was locked in the arms of the drowsy god-if you only knew of the dark chasms, of the yawning guifs, of the overhanging precipices, and of the sharp rocks I had to pass over to get back into the good old Democratic fold after I had once strayed from it, you would thank your stars for having boldly and fearlessly come out on the side of the true and regular Democracy.' In the above remarks he referred to the time when he was a Know Nothing, and a leader of that party.

RECANTATION. - The Stockton Republican which recently copied a scurrilous article questioning the correctness of the Union's dispatches, in reference to the Pennsylvania elec tion, had the following in its issue of yesterday

It is useless for the Democracy to make any more calculations on Pennsylvania. That is very evident from the tenor of the dis-patches received yesterday. While we are puzzled, as well as others, to account for the discrepancy in the first dispatches received, we must, in justice, acknowledge that the UN'ON'S reporter was the most correct, as he has been in other instances where his report has been doubted.

BETS IN TEHAMA. - The Red Bluff Beacon has the following:

We are authorized by a gentleman in this sec tion to say that he will bet one hundred dollars in cash against a like amount, or three hundred dollars' worth of county warrants to one hun-dred and fifty dollars in cash, that Douglas will get more votes in Tehama county than any other candidate for the Presidency.

One hundred dollars have been placed in our hands ready to put up against twenty-five dol-lars, that Dr. Spalding (Breckinridge nominee for the Assembly), if elected, will vote for Gwin for the United States Senate.

WIRES BROKEN. - The following from the Stockton Republican, of yesterday, gives the cause of the telegraph wires being out of order on Wednesday evening, October 24th :

As the team which was carrying out of town a pile driver, to be used at Athearn's bridge, was passing up the levee yesterday afternoon, the machine, which is very high, caught the Sacramento telegraph wire, which crosses the levee, and gave it such a severe strain that it broke at some point not far from where it was struck. It was doubtful if the communication could be resumed last evening.
